FAIRGROUNDS MOVE STALLS

Ag-Society Elects Six Board Directors But Sets Aside Site Change Proposal.

Expected action on the proposal to sell the fairgrounds and purchase a site for new grounds failed to materialize when only 38 of the Richland county Agricultural society's 196 members showed up at the common pleas court room for the annual meeting and election yesterday afternoon.

Six directors of the county fair board were elected to three year terms, three of these being new members.

Orville Kibler, secretary of the society, reported as elected the following men:

C. S. Henry to represent Weller township; Clair Will, Sharon township; Harry E. Miller, Washington townshop; C. O. Lister, Madison township; Earl Huston, Cass township, Floyd A. Tomlinson, Springfield township.

Only One Contest.

Only contest in the election was that between Tomlinson and E. C. Shafer, incumbent, for the Springfield township post Tomlinson polled 24 votes and Shafer received 13. Votes on the uncontested candidates were Henry 23, Will, 24, Miller, 22, Lister 21, and Huston 23.

There were 10 directorships to be voted upon, six because the terms expired at the end of this year and four left vacant because of death. Kibler reported that the board intends appointing persons to fill the remaining four vancancies at a meeting Jan. 4.

The election results put three new men on the fair board, Tomlinson, Huston and Lister being the newly elected directors.

A special committee, composed of Will, Arthur A. Mellick and Charles C. Oberlin, appointed to study feasibility of disposing of the present fairgrounds, submitted its

Atlanta Hotel Fire Dead 120

ATLANTA, G. —(AP)— The most frightful hotel fire in American history roared through the 15-story Winecoff Hotel in downtown Atlanta early Saturday, killing 120 persons and injuring at least 100 more.

Men, women and children plunged screaming to their deaths on pavements below their windows, while scores of others were trapped and burned or suffocated in upstairs rooms.

At daylight the sides of the tall, chimney-like structure were draped with torn bed-sheets and blankets, marking in grim silence where victims tried to escape. Eyewitnesses told how panic-stricken guests swung from tenth and twelfth story windows on flimsy, makeshift ropes. A few were rescued, but most fell headlong as flames burned away their supports, or they lost their grip.

Others were seen briefly at flaming windows, shrieking and praying, then disappearing into the terrible inferno.

At one time, a half-dozen bodies lay at the intersection of Atlanta's famed Peachtree Street and Carnegie Way, opposite the theater where the world premier of "Gone With the Wind" was staged.

Heady Are Saved.

Some who kept their heads were saved. White-haired Mrs. Banks Whiteman, manager of the hotel cigar counter, pulled the wife and children of her employer, Arthur F. Geele jr., from the 14th floor to the top-floor apartment of Mrs. Arthur Geele sr. There they huddled in a corner until the fire subsided.

The brick, concrete and steel structure had no outside fire-escapes, but was classed as "fire-resistant." Fire Marshal Harry Phillips said it met all safety codes in 1914 when it was built.

The fire apparently started on the third or fourth floor, and Mayor William B. Hartsfield said its origin was under investigation.

Would-be rescuers told of seeing many forms silhouetted against boiling flames, praying vainly for succor that could not reach them. Thudding bodies crashed in ghastly procession into the street and into smoke-filled alleyways. There were 285 guests registered at the hotel, which was one of Atlanta's leading hostelries

Builder Among Dead.

The death toll eclipsed Chicago's LaSalle Hotel fire of six months ago, when 61 died, and more than trebled the 34 dead in Atlanta's Terminal Hotel fire of May 16, 1938.

The nation's previous record toll in a hotel fire was 71 in the Newhall House Holocaust at Milwaukee in 1883.

Among the identified dead was W. F. Winecoff, one of the hotel's builders, who died in his upper-floor apartment. His wife is missing

Fifty Hi-Y girls from all over Georgia were quartered in the hotel Some escaped and the fate of others was unknown.

The fire was reported shortly after 3 a. m. Firemen brought it under control by 7 a. m., and the last bodies were removed by 9:30.

BOMB WARNINGS SWEEP HOLY LAND

JERUSALEM —(AP)— Triple guards were mounted at all public buildings in Jerusalem and the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv last night as bombscare warnings spread through both cities.

Police received a threat that the Royal Air Force headquarters in Jerusalem would be "the target." Guards were mounted on the building and additional police details placed on nearby roofs. Cafes, moving picture houses and other public places were emptied an hour after dark as the crowds became fearful of an outbreak of violence.

ARMY BOOTS ANDRUS

FRANKFURT, Germany —(AP)— The U. S. army announced yesterday it had streamlined its security measures at the Nuernberg jail and had removed as Commandant Col. B. C. Andrus whose elaborate precautions were flaunted when Hermann Goering cheated the gallows by swallowing a vial of long-hidden poison.

NEW DEVICES PERMIT ALL-WEATHER FLYING

WASHINGTON — (AP)— Three government agencies announced last night that tests show all-weather flying on the airways is possible with a combination of landing aids now available.

They recommended immediate steps to use them.

The report, by the Army Air Forces, Navy Bureau of Aeronautics and the Civil Aeronautics administration, covered the first phase of a research project at the landing aids experimental station, Arcata, Calif., where dense fogs and bad weather provide a natural proving ground

GOP COMMITTEE SET TO ENDORSE JOB APPLICANTS

44 Seeking Political Posts to Know How They Stand Within Few Days.

Forty-four applicants for 21 political jobs will know within a week or 10 days whether they'll get the backing of the Richland county Republican executive committee.

Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the 39-member GOP executive committee, said yesterday that his organization would meet soon to endorse formally its choices for the political jobs that will be available when the new administration of Gov. Elect Thomas J. Herbert takes office.

He said that applications are being received by himself and Atty. James V. Will, chairman of the county Republican central committee.

Shafer, Hawley Popular.

Headlining Richland county's chances of seating candidates in important state jobs at Columbus is the reported strong support of Harry E. Hawley as director of liquor control and Murray Shafer as state highways director.

Both appear to be in favorable position for the appointments, party leaders said. Hawley, chairman of the liquor control board under former Gov. John W. Bricker, is currently clerk of the county board of elections.

Shafer, although living now in Columbus where he operates his own firm of consulting engineers, maintains his voting residence in Mansfield. He is a former city service-safety director, former Division 3 engineer in the state highway department, and for a time was chief of the department's bureau of location and design at the capital city.

However, Shafer has in Donald Patterson, Lorain county engineer, an opponent for the Richland county GOP organization's support. Patterson is a former construction and project engineer in the state road department.

Stiff competition for the job of superintendent of the highway department's maintenance station in Richland county exists between five candidates. Hardy lists them as Glenn Swanger, mayor of Shiloh; Charles H. Hebel, Mansfield's superintendent of streets; Willard Groff, a township trustee of Weller township and formerly employed by the state department; Chester W. Ervin, formerly employed in the department, and James W. McMillen, who held the superintendency under Bricker.

Other jobs and the applicants for them which will be studied by the GOP organization are:

Assistant superintendent, state department of highways—Jay C. Edwards, an employe of the Mansfield garbage department; Charles D. Nelson, Shiloh; Hebel (second choice ; and Groff (second choice).

Division 3 engineer, state department of highways—C. Homer Bricker, Medina county engineer; Alfred Westrick, former assistant division engineer.

Lewis Tells His Miners Unity of Action Needed

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Text of John L. Lewis' letter to members of the United Mine Workers directing them to go back to work:

December 7, 1946

To all members and all local unions in the bituminous districts of the United States, United Mine Workers of America: Greetings:

The administration "yellow-dog injunction has reached the supreme court. The supreme court of the United States is a constitutional court. Its powers are derived from the federal constitution. The supreme court is, and we believe will ever be, the protector of American liberties and the rightful privileges of individual citizens. The issues before the court are fateful for our republic. It may be presumed that the verdict of the court, when rendered, will affect the life of every citizen. These weighty considerations and the fitting respect due the dignity of this high tribunal imperatively require that, during its period of deliberation, the court be free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis. In addition, public necessity requires the quantitative production of coal during such period.

Each member is therefore advised as follows:

All mines in all districts will resume production of coal immediately until 12:00 o'clock midnight, March 31, 1947. Each member is directed to return to work immediately to their usual employment, under the wages, working hours and conditions of employment in existence on and before November 20, 1946. Each mine committee, in cooperation with the officers of each bituminous district, will enforce these employment conditions at each mine. Further advice and instructions will be sent from time to time as authorized by the national policy committee or the responsible and authoritative officers of your organization.

During the working period thus defined, the negotiating committee of the United Mine Workers of America will be willing to negotiate a new wage agreement for the bituminous industry with such parties as may demonstrate their authority so to do, whether it be an alphabetical agency of the United States government or the associated coal operators. If, as and when such negotiations ensue, your representatives will act in full protection of your interests, within the limitations of the findings of the supreme court of the United States.

Let there be no hesitation upon the part of any individual member with respect to the effectuation of the policy herein defined. Complete unity of action is our sole source of strength. We will, as always, act together and await the rendition of legal and economic justice.

I salute you, beside whom I have been privileged to fight.

Sincerely,

John L. Lewis

Military Leaders Tell Nation to Keep Alert

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States today is digesting food for thought given by warnings of two top-flight military leaders that the nation must keep on the alert unless real world peace is achieved.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, predicted yesterday that this nation will be drawn continually deeper into necessary preparation for "super blitz" conflict "unless we can get rid of this damnable thing of war."

The war department, he told reporters, is setting up a special staff with members divorced from other military duties to work with scientists on plans for atomic age warfare.

At Dallas, Tex., Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz warned in a Pearl Harbor anniversary speech last night that a militarily weak United States would make a tempting prize for "modern conquistadores."

"Twice within a generation, aspirants for world conquests have made the mistake of attacking the United States last," the Texas-born chief of naval operations said in a speech prepared for delivery before the philosophical society of Texas.

"The next would-be conqueror will hit us first," he declared.

At an earlier luncheon, the admiral said he hopes that the atomic bomb will be outlawed but expressed the belief that the bomb has a limited use against ships.

Saturday afternoon, Nimitz attended the unveiling of a bust of himself in the Hall of State at Dallas. It was the first time that a living Texan was so honored. Nimitz was born 61 years ago at Fredericksburg, Texas.

HUSBAND CAN'T GO TO WIFE'S BURIAL

ATHENS —(AP)— Funeral services were held in Newark yesterday for the 21-year-old wife of Jewell Peters, but his physician forbid the Ohio University student to attend the rites.

The wife, Leah Mae, was found dead in their trailer last Tuesday and authorities are awaiting the results of an autopsy to determine the cause of death.

The 24-year-old husband, who was found unconscious beside his wife's body, was released from a hospital yesterday afternoon and planned to go to his home in Morgantown, W Va., last night to "rest up," he said

BILBO TO FACE 30 WITNESSES

WASHINGTON —(AP)— More than 30 witnesses have been summoned to testify before the senate war investigating subcommittee looking into the relations between Senator Bilbo (D-Miss) and a group of war contractors, Chairman Mead (D-N. Y.) announced last night.

The public hearings begin Thursday.

Mead noted in a statement that Bilbo has made known his intention of appearing personally.

"The subcommittee has assured Senator Bilbo that it will summon as witnesses any persons known by him to have first-hand information with respect to the matters under investigation," Mead added. "In accordance with the committee's traditional policy, the subcommittee approaches this investigation with an open mind and is interested only in ascertaining the truth.

"The committee has not prejudged the validity of the serious charges made and will make certain that all relevant facts are produced in public hearings"

Mead did not make the witness list public.

Another senate committee completed open hearings at Jackson, Miss., Thursday into allegations that Bilbo tried to keep Negroes from voting in last summer's primary. That group — the special committee investigating campaign expenditures—has not made its report.

'Smoke-Eaters' Thread Was Through Heavy Traffic To Learn They've Been 'Needled'

By JOHN MINE

Fire phones jangled madly in all four of the city's fire stations.

"Smoke-eaters" froze in their tracks as house captains got the word. Two companies were needed fast! On North Main street!

Companies nearest the blaze roared into action Men at two stations scrambled aboard fire "rigs." They clamped on their helmets and clipped shut their coats as the apparatus screeched through the tight, Saturday afternoon traffic.

Cars and trucks slammed to a stop all along the line; at intersection, vehicles pulled to the curbs as engines zoomed by, almost taking corners on two wheels

First to arrive was a pumper. Then a second and third pumper roared up, followed by the city's aerial ladder.

The trucks converged on the location from two directions. Crowds gathered as firemen jumped off rigs and prepared to go into action. Then they stopped

Standing on the sidewalk with a sheepish grin on his face was Thomas Ponlo, of Shelby. It seems his car caught fire, but, well, somehow he put the blaze out before the rigs arrived.

What had caused this mad scramble of firemen and trucks? The report had come in over the telephone as a dry cleaning plant fire!

Firemen, figuring it all in a day's work, slammed their trucks into reverse, swung them around and drove back to their stations.

Lights Go On, Trains Resume Full Schedule

Maintenance Crews Return At Once To Mine Pits With Full-Scale Operation Slated To Start Monday.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Like the finish of a nightmare, virtually all the restrictions and the economic peril facing the nation faded rapidly away after John L. Lewis gave in to the government and ended the coal strike yesterday afternoon.

President Truman cancelled the broadcast he had planned for tonight, closed his desk and went to an art show, smiling but silent on the outcome.

Lewis ordered the 400,000 miners to end the 17-day walkout and go back to work immediately. Reports from the mine fields indicated ready compliance. Some maintenance crews headed for the pits last night, and full-scale resumption of mining Monday morning appeared certain.

At the same time Lewis announced his readiness to negotiate with the private mine owners for new wage and other demands, a step which could clear the way for the government to get out of the coal business.

For his startling step Lewis gave two reasons—that the supreme court in considering the case might be "free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis," and that "public necessity requires the quantitative production of coal during such period."

Lewis' retreat came abruptly between two conferences with Chief Justice Vinson of attorneys for the union and the justice department. One conference was held in the forenoon, before Lewis acted; another was held in the late afternoon. The court sent word that no announcement would be made Saturday, and the lawyers all were tight-mouthed.

The nine justices at their regular Saturday noon conference had an opportunity to decide whether they will hear Lewis' appeal, at the government's request, and Lewis seemed sure that they would. He said that his future negotiations will be "within the limitations of the findings of the supreme court," and made other references to an expected ruling.

Coal Saving Plans Junked.

The sudden end of the strike brought swift action by officials junking the coal conservation measures which had shackled industry and darkened the Christmas outlook. The freight and express embargoes were lifted, the ban on passenger travel revoked, and the 21-state dimout cancelled in time for Saturday night shopping throngs except in a few places where the utilities are nearly out of fuel A partial removal of the freeze on coal stocks was being prepared and probably will be issued tomorrow.

"We want to remove the controls as quickly as possible so the coal freeze on deliveries and on distribution may return to normal," said a spokesman for the coal mines administration. "However, we want to make sure the consumers in the critical categories get sufficient supplies until coal stocks are replenished."

With the theatrics he loves, Lewis announced the capitulation to a hurriedly-called news conference at 2 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time). Sonorously, with Shakesperean references, he read a notice to the miners telling them all to go back to work immediately—until midnight, March 31, he stipulated. But developments between now and then could make that deadline meaningless.

Lewis prefaced what he had to say by announcing he would read his letter to the miners himself so reporters might know "that 'tis mine own, made on this day, and in good faith"

Caps Legal Campaign.

Lewis' announcement capped a rapid-fire legal campaign that had seen these developments in the past week:

Lewis fined $10,000 and the union $3,500,000 amounting to $250,000 a day for contempt of court in 14 days' disregard of Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough's preliminary restraining order against termination of the contract with the government.

The issuance of a temporary injunction to the same end as the preliminary restraining order.

An appeal by Lewis and the

Lewis Once Before Quit For President

WASHINGTON —(AP)— This is the second time within three years that John L. Lewis has backed up when he ran head on into the president of the United States.

During a coal strike in 1943, in the middle of the war, Lewis showed no signs of truce until President Roosevelt decided to ask the miners to ignore Lewis and return to work.

Just a few moments before Mr. Roosevelt went on the air, Lewis called off the strike.

President Truman had scheduled a nationwide broadcast for Sunday night but cancelled it after Lewis ordered his miners back to work.

City Receives Strike News With Happy Sigh of Relief

Theater marquees that returned to their customary brillance in Mansfield last night signified the relief and rejoicing with which thousands of the city's residents met the news that the coal strike had ended The consequences were far-reaching here, as elsewhere throughout the nation

At Westinghouse all production employes—except those furloughed last week—will report tomorrow morning instead of Tuesday morning as previously announced, it was reported last night by company officials.

Employes are to report Monday on their scheduled times, plant officials said, and office workers will report for the regular work week.

Plan 5-Day Week.

"It is hoped that production can be maintained for a five-day week," an official stated. "Production for the week of Dec. 16 will depend largely on the ability of our raw material suppliers to start deliveries to us."

Meanwhile approximately 600 employes of the Dominion Electric company were scheduled to return to work tomorrow morning after a week-end layoff that began Friday morning, Martin Waisbren, acting for Nathan Lifson, treasurer of the company, reported last night.

H. R. Williams, station agent of the Pennsylvania, reported the cancellation of orders that would have halted 13 trains at 11:59 p. m. today All of these trains will continue on their present schedule with the exception of train 126 for Pittsburgh at 4:12 p. m. and 117 to Detroit at 4 24 p m

It is expected that these two trains will be restored to their former schedule soon, Williams said.

Erie railroad officals were also expecting orders today that would cancel a former order to halt two of that company's trains through the city tonight.

Awaits Official Word.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn last night was anticipating official word from the state or national government on the cancelling of the dim-out directive that had resulted in the turning-off of two-thirds of the city's white-way lights at 10:30 p. m. instead of 12 each night

At the Ohio Public Service company, Joy A. Herbert, manager, was also awaiting official word on the cancelling of the dim-out directive.

Lights of the Christmas decorations in Central Park will now go on, it is expected.

MHS Pupils Preparing Christmas Baskets to Bring Cheer to Needy

By DAVID BARNHILL

Christmas baskets will be prepared by MHS sturents again this year for those to whom Christmas otherwise brings little cheer. The baskets will contain all kinds of food such as canned fruits, fresh vegetables, meat and candy.

On Friday, Miss Ruth Dunham, instructor at MHS, who is in charge of the program, held a meeting in the auditorium for representatives of each home room. Miss Dunham outlined the program and chose committees for assembling the foods and delivering the baskets. The work will be done during the next two weeks.

Hi-Ys Formed.

Two new Hi-Y clubs have been organized at Mansfield Senior high school. Formed were a sophomore and a Senior Hi-Y club.

All seniors and sophomores who were interested in joining Hi-Y clubs were urged to attend a meeting held after school. At the assehblage, Herman Bishop, assistant principal, explained that the YMCA desired to have an organization for each grade at the high school. became members only by being voted in by those who already belonged to the organization.

After the new system of membership had been discussed, those who joined at that time divided into two groups for temporary organization. The sophomore group elected Raymond Dent, teacher at MHS as advisor and David Stanton as president. The senior division chose Mr. Bishop to be the adviser and David Barnhill was elected president pro tem.

The president and advisors of each of the three Hi-Y clubs now functioning at the school will attend the Hi-Y congress at Columbus Dec. 14 and 15.

The advisor and president of the junior club, which has been operating all year, are Mr. Robert Y. Davis and John Parks, respectively.

CARNIVAL HELD

Saturday, November 23, the sophomore choir of Mansfield Senior high held a carnival at the high school to obtain money to purchase choir robes. It is estimated that the affair was attended by at least 650 people. Plenty of food and entertainment made the carnival a success. Wiener sandwiches, candy bars, pie, cake, and ice cream were sold. Each member of the sophomore choir worked on entertainment or food distribution of the event. Several 15 minute reels were shown, the films consisted of war pictures, sports shows, and comics.

Other forms of entertainment which typified the event were a "fish pond," ring tossing, ping-pong, baseball throwing, pinball machines, and bingo. A LeMoine Derr, choir director at Mansfield high school, had charge of the carnival.

'STOREWORK' CLASSES

During the sixth period classes are conducted several times a week for students at the high school who wish to learn "tricks of the trade" connected with storework. The classes were started several weeks ago and most students who enrolled expect to be benefited by the instruction during Christmas vacation.

John Stout, who teaches distribution education at the high school, has charge of the class.

The students are instructed in many of the fundamentals of storework such as: How to make change, how to operate a cash register, how to make the proper approach to the customer, how to be courteous, and many other useful helps.

STUDY CHANGES IN FUND SET-UP

Two changes and one amendment to the constitution of the Mansfield Community Fund association will be brought up for consideration of the executive board at the annual meeting of the Fund, Jan. 6, Fred B. Hout, president of the organization, said yesterday.

Trustees officers and an executive committee will also be elected for 1947.

The proposed changes in the constitution are:

1. That the name of the organization be changed to the Mansfield Community Chest in compliance with other branch offices of the national organization;

2. That the itemized statements of operating financial requirements of each of the 10 participating agencies of the fund be submitted by the 10th month of the current fiscal year, instead of by March 5th of each year.

The proposed amendments, designated as Section 6, subdivision P in the institution, reads:

"A participating agency or institutional member of the Community Cest, desiring to withdraw from the chest, or to discontinue its services to the public, before so doing shall give 30 days' written notice of its intention to the executive committee of the Community Chest."

Studio Party's Big Surprise—No Liquor

By HERBERT D. WILHOIT

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Surely you've heard about wild parties in the movie studios—revels on the set, campagne fountains, dancing gals with few, if any, clothes, and all that?

There's been many a tale of that sort.

Well, let me tell you about a movie set party.

The studio publicist was showing this newcomer around R-K-O. We watched Jane Greer, Robert Mitchum and company do a scene for "Build My Gallows High." Somebody whispered a party was cooking, a surprise party for the director, Jacques Tourneur. It was his birthday.

BOY-O-BOY, A SET PARTY! That ought'a be somethin'. It was a rainy day. (They have 'em here.) Our feet were wet, raincoat soaked. What could be better than a brew or two (to ward off a cold, of course) in the midst of a collection of beautiful babes.

So when the day's shooting finished the company broke up. Everybody hustled through the rain to another building for the party on another set.

Mis Greer arrived. She was shivering. She had changed from the chic outfit she'd worn for the scene into a dress and coat that didn't keep her warm enough, she said, plus an unromantic-looking scarf tied around her head.

Mitchum showed up. He wore a battered old hat, a lumberjack shirt, and unpressed pair of slacks and beat-up looking shoes. The grips and the rest wore work clothes. The dialog girl, sparkplug of the party, had on a checkered ski jacket.

PROBABLY THE SMARTEST looking girl in the crowd was a visiting writer, also being shown around the studio. The best-dressed man was Director Tourneur, in a blue suit, white shirt and bright tie. He must have known the "surprise" was coming.

The whole contingent milled around, talking small talk. Then came the surprise.

It was a huge ice cream cake. "Happy Birthday" was embossed on it in pink frosting. Mitchum and Kirk Douglas, Dickie Moore (onetime child star) and Paul Valentine started singing "Happy Birthday to You." Nearly everybody joined in.

The cake was planted in front of Tourneur. Then they presented him with a fountain pen.

A prop man brought Tourneur a big butcher knife. "Cut the cake!" they cried. He did.

The company stood, or sat, or sprawled on the floor, eating ice cream cake.

The nearest approach to liquor was a prop bar on a nearby set. It was dry.

Maxwell, Noted Singer, Returns To City for Concert Tonight

When Richard Maxwell comes here tonight to sing at the First English Lutheran church, one of the most interested Mansfield residents will be Miss Florence MacDonald, his first voice teacher.

Miss MacDonald was teaching at Belcourt Seminary, Washington, D. C., when Maxwell entered Georgetown university and became one of her pupils. She has followed his career with particular interest.

For a number of years in Mansfield before he left for New York, Maxwell was a favorite with church and amateur show audiences. He sang in several church choirs here and was one of the singing stars in several community entertainments.

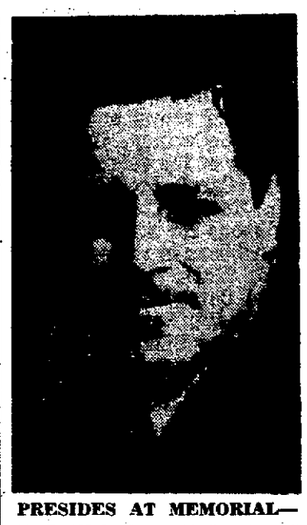
Many "old timers" will remember particularly his singing of "I Wonder What Became of Sally" at one of the amateur plays, and the request for encores which greeted that song.

Since going to New York, Maxwell has become an author and publisher as well as continuing his singing. His radio program "Songs of Comfort and Cheer has been a popular one for years. In connection with that program, Maxwell has published a songbook entitled "Songs of Comfort and Cheer."

Maxwell is also writing for a number of religious magazines. He is a member of the publishing firm of Maxwell and Wirges on Broadway.

Maxwell and Miss Helen Benner will sing Sunday night and Pat B. Withrow, jr., will recount some of his experiences in army and naval bases and hospitals during the past five years.

The program is being sponsored here for the benefit of the Veterans' Hospital Programs association. No admission will be charged, but a free-will offering will be taken.



PRESIDES AT MEMORIAL—J. G. Blahnik, exalted ruler of the Elks lodge, will preside at memorial services at 2:30 p. m. today when the 750 lodge members pay tribute to the four who have died since the last memorial services on Dec. 2, 1945. Robert J. Alander, past president of the Georgia State Association of Elks and general manager of the News-Journal, will deliver the memorial address, following invocation by E. N. Hedeen and a eulogy by John S. Jones. Blahnik will give the memorial tribute to Harry V. Downs, Bert C. Heath, Wellington T. Leonard and Joseph Michael.

'Show Boat' Has Long Run, But Loses Money

By JACK O'BRIAN

NEW YORK—(AP)—The revival of Jerome Kern's "Show Boat," which ends a full year's run at the Ziegfeld theater Jan. 4, is a glittering illustration of how to lose a fortune with a hit show.

One of the costliest productions of any season, revival or otherwise, "Show Boat" will have run exactly one year when it closes, will have amassed a total gross of about $2,185,000 in its 417 performances, but will have lost some $200,000.

The reason for such a deficit is the high running cost of the show, which almost precluded breaking even.

Oscar Hammerstein, who is the librettist and lyricist of the handsome musical, generally acknowledged to be the best tune show in Broadway's history, was to have produced it in collaboration with the late Jerome Kern, who died while "Show Boat" was in rehearsal. Oscar went ahead and presented it on his own, backed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, which told him to spare nothing in effort to see "Show Boat" brought back to Broadway in a most opulent, tasteful form.

THIS INDEED WAS ACCOMplished, but in packing the show with lavish sets and a huge cast, plus the costs of labor and talent which have risen several times since Ziegfeld first presented it in 1927, it was discovered on opening night that it would have to run a minimum of two years with packed houses in order to amass a comfortable profit.

The musical needed $36,000 or more a week in order to break even, and while for a good many weeks at the beginning of the engagement, sellout houses were the rule, business dropped off in the summer and did not pick up sufficiently in the fall to merit indefinite continuance.

Among the minor statistics, please note one new Jerome Kern tune written especially for the revival, "No One But Me"; a personal success by Carol Bruce in the demanding role originally played by Helen Morgan, a spectacular scenic production designed by Howard Bay; the return to the Broadway stage after war service of Buddy Ebsen and the return to the legitimate stage of the famous Ziegfeld theater, built by the late great Florenz Ziegfeld and now owned by Billy Rose. There have been rumors that the Ziegfelds may again become a movie house, but the Rose management says positively no.

LIMA—(U.P.)—Funeral services were planned here Saturday for Thomas R. Hamilton, 82, veteran attorney and past president of the Allen County Bar association, who died of a heart ailment Friday.

Rate Boosts Likely To Exceed Billion

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Rate increases expected to add $1,000,000,000 to the nation's annual bill for freight hauled by rail and water will go into effect Jan. 1.

The boost, authorized by the Interstate Commerce commission, will average 17.6 per cent over the June, 1946 level. It will be slightly less, however, than the 19.6 per cent increase the class one railroads had asked.

SAVINGS INCREASE

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The fourth federal reserve district reports savings deposits at 59 banks in 12 large cities of the district increased $2,225,000 a week during November. The average weekly increase was $3,500,000 in the first six months of the year.

City Set to Bargain Monday for Remaining Land for Lake Project

NEGOTIATIONS FOR CLEAR FORK SITE RESUMED

Officials Fail to Agree On Acreage Needed for Big Water Supply Reservoir.

The only major snag in negotiations for Clear Fork reservoir land came to light Saturday as city officials prepared to bargain tomorrow for all or part of some 200 acres owned by R. O. McFarland.

His land represents virtually the last acres needed for the $1,000,000 project destined to triple Mansfield's water supply.

Stumbling blocks in the negotiations are the facts that McFarland refuses to sell all 200 acres to the city, and that city officials themselves hold divided opinions as to how negotiations should be closed.

McFarland believes the city needs less than half of his land for the project while one group of city officials feels that all the land is needed until the relocation of State Route 97 is decided.

Sides With Owner.

The second group sides with McFarland, declaring that, on the basis of present facts, it is unnecessary to purchase all the land now and that such a move would tie up much-needed reservoir cash.

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn and Councilman James R. Anderson, chairman of council's reservoir committee, favor buying all the land and at a later date, selling back to McFarland the unneeded portions.

Mayor Vaughn said this method is necessary because the state has not yet approved a proposed route for relocation of State Route 97.

City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner and Councilman Fred Miller, a member of the reservoir committee, favor buying only land north of a proposed relocated route, surveyed by the county engineer's office.

They argue that if at a later date, more land is needed to complete relocation of the road it could be purchased from McFarland either through negotiations or through condemnation proceedings, if necessary.

The mayor said that if the complete-purchase method is not acceptable to McFarland he would favor immediate condemnation proceedings to speed the progress of the water project.

Sell What's Needed.

However, Councilman Miller said that he has received assurance from McFarland that he would be willing to settle the negotiations by selling all land north of the engineer's proposed route now, and, later, whatever additional land might be needed.

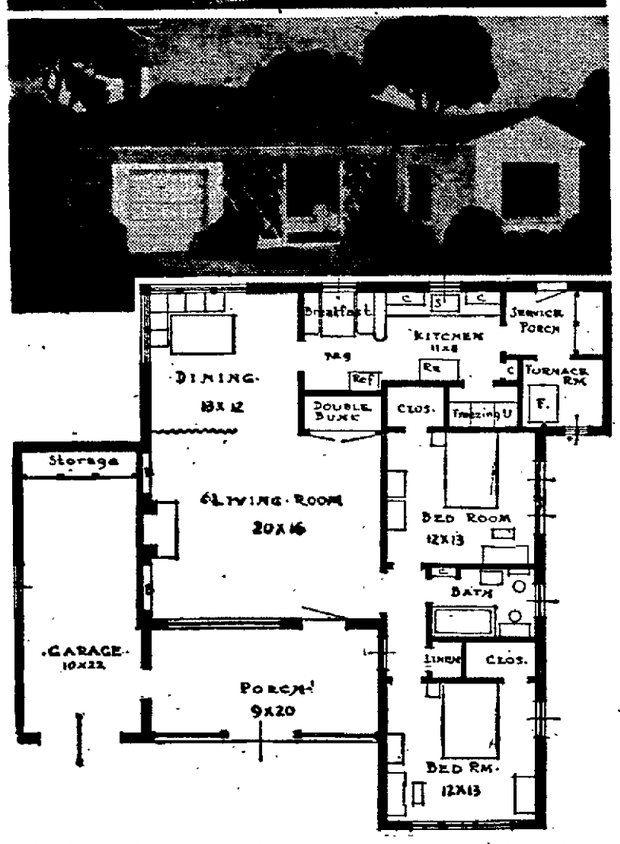
If negotiations are not completed tomorrow, Miller said that McFarland has agreed to grant the city easement rights on those portions of land to be cleared. McFarland could not be reached yesterday for comment.

Although McFarland's property represents the major land tract still not held by the city, four others must be purchased before the land-purchasing phase of the project is finished.

Charles J. Roth owns some 18 acres in about the middle of the reservoir site. Negotiations there have been bogged down because of price and a spring on his property.

Some five acres are to be purchased from Olive L. Tanner for a portion of the proposed relocated 97 and 14 other acres are to be bought in the Hershey well area for the project's purification plant. A pipe line right-of-way is also on the land-buying schedule. In all, some 2,100 acres will have been purchased when buying is completed.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS



COMPACTNESS features this plan, No. A-502, by W. H. Schumacher, Oklahoma City, architect. The service area in the rear of the house includes a freezing unit room, furnace room, service porch with closets, kitchen and breakfast nook. A double bunk in the living room, for emergency accommodations, provides alternative storage space. Building is estimated between $8,000 and $10,000 without land.

New Furnace Proves 'Jack Of All Fuels'

There is an old saying that a Jack of all trades is Master of none. However, an exception can be made to a new furnace, the particular virtue of which is that it is a "Jack of all fuels, and Master of each."

By eliminating the old-style furnace radiator and enlarging the combustion chamber, this furnace introduces some new wrinkles in combustion which greatly increases the heat radiating area.

An upper carburetor is employed, together with a baffle known as a "Fuel Saver," with the combination resulting in a better mixing of air with the fuel gases, and creating an action described as "whirlpool combustion."

The net result is that the furnace is of ideal design for the burning of practically all fuels. In other words, it can be said to be an all-purpose heating plant.

All of which makes sense, for while it may be an advantage to heat with oil or gas at the present time, there may well come a period for economic reasons the need arises for reverting to coal heat.

A furnace that is equally adaptable to all types of fuel means that one is free to change as advantage dictates without any loss or impairment of the original heating investment. When it is considered that one's heating plant represents about 4% of the total cost of a home, anything that can make such a major investment flexible to conform with changing fuel conditions is certainly worthy of one's consideration.

CORRECT LIGHTING MAKE HALLS CHEERY

How often has one entered an unlighted hallway or vestibule which might just as well have been cheerful and attractive if a thought had been given to the lighting!

Such a hallway or vestibule may be lighted with windows on either side of the door, a glass transom above the door or with glass set in the door. Stock sizes of all these items are available and will recreate the vestibule or entrance hall into a light and cheerful place.

Electric lights of course should be arranged for, either ceiling lights or side lights. If you prefer a small console table on which a stationary lamp may be placed, by all means provide a base plug for the cord.

Painting Cement Floors Hard to Do

Painted cement floor surfaces are not always satisfactory. The paint keeps flaking off and it is rarely that the paint does not flake off before it has dried. This is probably due to the fact that the floors were not properly painted in the first place.

The first thing to do in painting cement floors is to know that the surfaces are thoroughly cleaned and dried. The next is to wash the floor with a solution of zinc sulphite and warm water, which neutralizes any alkaline spots in the cement that may be there.

Insulating Board Lath Helps Reduce Sound Transmission

Privacy and quietness are two of the most sought after advantages in multiple-unit dwellings, builders report. Interior walls which permit the free passage of sound rank high on the tenants' complaint list. As a result, construction authorities are giving more attention to the subject of sound insulation.

Recent authoritative tests have shown that both the materials used in a wall and the manner in which they are joined together have a bearing on sound transmission. In these tests it was disclosed that a wall consisting of wood stud partitions, plastered on both sides over insulating board lath was more effective in reducing sound than similar walls having two other types of commonly used lath as the plaster bases.

The wall panel with the insulating board lath reduced the transmission of sound by 40.9 decibels (the units used for measuring sound). This reduction is sufficient to keep out ordinary speech and muffle loud speech so that it is unintelligible.

In another test a similar wall was constructed, with the addition of an auxiliary partition consisting of plaster over insulating board lath. The auxiliary wall included 2x2-inch studs on 16-inch centers and was separated from the original wall except at the plate. This construction reduced sound transmission by 52.3 decibels, a condition which is highly satisfactory.

Insulating board lath is one of the family of insulating board products which includes sheathing, building board and interior finish. It is applied to present a solid backing for the plaster and thus eliminates the danger of unsightly lath marks. In addition to serving as a plaster base, it doubles as an insulation.

STAMPS
In The News

STAMP albums of the future are likely to contain some new stamp-issuing countries as a result of crrrent demands in the United Nations, peace treaty negotiations and independence movements throughout the world.

Latest likely stamp-issuing prospect is the proposed sovereign United State of Indonesia, agreed upon by delegates of The Netherlands and the Indonesian Republic in conferences at Batavia, Java, in mid-November.

Stamps of the Netherlands Indies are now used in the proposed U. S. I. but undoubtedly will be replaced. As a matter of fact, a definitive series of stamps issued by the Indonesian Republic already has been reported, but these too seem likely to be replaced eventually.

Another new stamp-issuing country is expected to be the Faroe Islands, which voted last September for the independence from Denmark.

In the United Nations, Premier Jan Christian Smuts of the Union of South Africa already has called for incorporation of Southwest Africa into South Africa. Southwest Africa has had its own definitive stamps and has used overprints of South African stamps since World War I. In London a South African government spokesman has announced that the Union plans to seek incorporation of three British stamp-issuing colonies—Bechuanaland, Swaziland and Basutoland.

THE post office department's answer to suggestions that the thousands of eight-cent airmail stamps remaining on hand be overprinted with the new five-cent value, as were the stamped envelopes, is that the cost would be prohibitive. It would cost more to overprint the stamps than to have new stamps printed, a department official said. The remaining stock of eight-cent stamps will be kept on sale at the department's Philatelic Agency, this official said, "for a number of years" for the benefit of collectors. The scarcity of envelopes, on the other hand, made it profitable to overprint and devalue stocks of the six-cent airmail stamped envelopes when the new rate became effective. These overprinted envelopes were shipped to Army and Navy post offices abroad.

Dentists Losing Race With Decay

COLUMBUS—(AP)—A "workshop" conference of Ohio dentists Saturday studied ways of expanding community dental programs to reach the "top percent of Ohio school children" who, one conference speaker estimated, need treatment for decaying teeth.

Dr. H. B. Milhoff, state health department dental hygiene division chief, reported Ohio children's teeth were decaying six times more rapidly than dentists can fix them, and estimated 90 percent of the school-age youngsters have untreated dental cavities.

BLASTS ROCK SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI—(UP)—Thunderous explosions rocked all of Shanghai Saturday as fire of undetermined origin roared through a large Chinese ammunition dump in the 100,000-seat athletic stadium less than a mile from the U. S. Army Transport Command airfield at Kiangwan.

RAIL STOCKS MOVE UPWARD

NEW YORK —(AP)— Rail stocks Saturday responded to the freight rate boost with a jump of one to more than four points in the liveliest Saturday market since last May but extreme gains eventually were cut by profit cashing and many industrials still were handicapped by the coal crisis.

Carriers came out at a fast opening on blocks of 1,000 to 15,000 shares, with a nummer appearing late as the result of difficulties in coordinating bids and offers. Dealings soon quieted.

While virtually all the rails were well on the upside near the close, most other departments held to a relatively narrow route and a smattering of minus signs was in evidence.

Transfers for the two hours were in the neighborhood of 800,000 shares.

The rate increase of approximately 17¾ percent was a bit better than most Wall Streeters had looked for and, it was believed, would add about $1,000,000,000 annually to the income of the roads, or some $620,000,000 after taxes.

Board rooms, however, expressed doubts regarding whether this net could be maintained in the face of possible union demands for hoisted pay, higher costs elsewhere and the curtailment of shipments in the event of economic letdown in 1947.

Rail bonds enjoyed an early bulge with stocks but the majority backed away from best levels. Commodities were steady.

Optimist Club To Hear Talk By Akron Newspaperwoman

Mrs. Helen Waterhouse of the Akron Beacon-Journal, one of the nation's leading newspaperwomen, will speak on her experiences "Behind the Iron Curtain in Yugoslavia" at the Optimist club's luncheon meeting, Wednesday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Mrs. Waterhouse will discuss what she found on her recent assignment to France, Germany, Austria, Czechoslovakia, Italy, Yugoslavia and Greece. Mrs. Waterhouse was the only American woman correspondent to cover the Draja Mihailovich trial. Another highlight of her trip was the invitational audience with Pope Pius XII at the Vatican to whom she related the conditions she found in Yugoslavia.

She has won more awards for journalistic achievements than any other newspaper woman in Ohio. In competitions conducted by the Ohio Women's Newspaper association in the last two years, Mrs. Waterhouse has won 47 first place awards, 13 second prizes and seven honorable mention positions.

In national competition, she has been given the coveted TWA award for the best newspaper work in the field of aviation for the years 1940, 1941 and 1943. Mrs. Waterhouse visited Mansfield for the dedication of the city's airport last July. Many of her articles on this phase of modern-day progress have been published in national periodicals.

Recently, she has received recognition when she released her story about the merchant marine men who refused to unload ships at Guadalcanal. Excerpts of this story are in the Congressional Record.

VETS BOSS THEMSELVES

Holder of Eight Battle Stars Co-Owner of Plumbing Company

Anything done in the line of plumbing, heating and pump work. That is the motto of Joe Feld, this week's "veteran in business for himself," and his partner, Corlis W. Keller, proprietors of the Mansfield Plumbing and Heating company, 444 Auburn avenue.

"I was born in Cleveland 29 years ago," Feld related, "and came to Mansfield where relatives were living about eight years ago.

"Before my entry into the service, in February 1941, I worked for the Brown Fence and Wire company. I saw service with the Third division in North Africa and Europe."

He received a French decoration, the Croix de Gerre, and eight battle stars. The Third division was cited twice by the president.

"RETURNING TO MANSfield after my discharge from the service in August 1945, Keller and I bought out an established plumbing business and have been going to town with it ever since," Feld continued. "I am a jack-of-all trades in the business.

"A great percentage of our business comes from about 15 Mansfield contractors with whom we constantly do business."

"While our primary work is plumbing, we handle heating and pump jobs and water softening.

"My hobbies are baseball, which I used to play a lot of, and, at present, raising our six-month old child," Feld concluded.

"While I'm not much of a joiner," he said, "we do belong to the Chamber of Commerce, and Keller belongs to the Lions, Eagles and Moose orders."

Feld and his family live at 97 Chilton avenue.

COLORS PRESENTED TO VFW AUXILIARY

Colors were presented Friday night to the newly-organized auxiliary to the Alfred I. Harrington Post No. 3494, VFW, by Harvey Burghard, commander of the Mansfield post.

Mrs. Clotilda Burghard, president of the auxiliary, accepted the colors. Richard Muford, Paul Davis and Richard Simmons assisted in the ceremonies.

Formed Sept. 22, the auxiliary now has a membership of 96, including 20 candidates given the obligation at last night's meeting at Memorial hall.

Pawn Broker Killed; Suspect Captured

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A pawn broker was shot to death in an attempted holdup in the downtown section Saturday and police cornered and wounded a suspect. Jacob S. Goldsmith, 60, proprietor of an establishment at 227 N.Third street, died of a bullet in the heart.

Police, pursuing a suspect, cornered him a half a mile away and wounded him in the shoulder. His name was not immediately available.

BIGBEE TO SPEAK

"Keeping America American" will be the subject of a talk by Homer L. Bigbee, president of the Farmers bank of Bellville, who speaks before the Mansfield Co-operative club Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. in the Mansfield-Leland hotel, R. Earl Brandenburg, program chairman announced today.

School Fire That Killed 36 Cited In Yule Safety Warning

In a little country school house in Babbs Switch, Okla., where 150 persons were crowded in for a Christmas party, candles ignited the Christmas tree. There was only one exit. Windows were heavily barred. Thirty-six celebrators were killed in the panic or left behind to burn to death when the crowd stampeded.

This instance, taken from the files of the Fire Prevention committee of the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce, was recalled by W. G. Schultz, chairman, in another appeal to Mansfielders for precaution against fires during the holidays.

"Clubs, stores and other public places need especially to be careful of fire during the holidays," Schultz said. "Most of them will be decorated and most will be crowded during a large part of the time."

FURTHER URGING THAT shoppers be on the alert for fire in a public builling, Schultz warned that exits are often inadequate to take care of a panic-stricken crowd.

To this he added a set of five "do" rules for the merchants:

1. Flammable decorations should not be allowed in any public building.

2. Waste materials should be removed at once.

3. No smoking should be allowed in the building.

4. Aisles and exits must be unobstructed and exits clarly marked.

5. Springlers, hand hose and fire extinguishers should be kept ready to operate.

SCHULTZ SAID THAT "EVEN buckets of water, widely distributed, may mean the difference between a trivial flareup and holocaust."

All electrical toys and gadgets should bear the stamp of approval of the Fire Underwriters Laboratories in order to assure the safety of the home, Schultz continued. He cited the file on a New Jersey hotel fire in which four persons lost their lives when a Christmas tree in the lobby was ignited by a toy electric train.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President and Mrs. Truman entertained the press Friday night at the White House and shook hands with everyone of their 1,477 guests.

Smith Returned To Mansfield

The condition of Sidney Smith, formerly of 268 South Main street, who was taken suddenly ill on Nov. 25 at his Zanesville home, was reported as improving today at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Dan Ross, 418 Sloan avenue. He was removed to the city in Finefrock's ambulance.

Smith, is district representative of the Ohio Industrial Commission's department of safety and hygiene.

FARMER LOSES FINGER

Clarence M. McFarland, Monroe township farmer, was reported in good condition at Mansfield General hospital yesterday, following an accident Tuesday in which he caught his right hand in a corn husker. It was necessary to amputate one finger of his hand.

WAR HERO RECEIVES SEVEN DECORATIONS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman has bestowed seven combat decorations on former T/Sgt. Llewellyn M. Chilson, the one-man army who killed 58 Germans and helped capture 243 others in five heroic months of front-line action.

The army said it was the largest number of decorations ever presented to one man at one time. It also was one of the few times a president ever has personally presented to an enlisted man a combat decoration of lesser rank than the coveted Medal of Honor.

Chilson, who entered the army from Akron, O., and now lives at Berwyn, Pa., was this long getting the awards because his exploits so challenged the imagination that the army spent 18 months verifying them—to make sure they actually happened.

Pledge of Allegiance to Flag

"I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America and to the Republic for which it stands, one Nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Lewis Grants Truce In Coal Strike

AS ABRUPTLY as he started the strike of 400,000 soft coal miners 18 days ago, their czar, John L. Lewis now orders them back to work, granting a truce until March 31 after having failed in his effort to arbitrarily terminate the United Mine Workers contract with the government.

Subjected to a $10,000 personal fine, and a fine of millions of dollars against his union, Lewis seems to have suddenly decided that best procedure would be to give some heed to duly constituted courts, and more especially to the United States Supreme Court, to which the case now goes.

It is fear of public pressure, it appears, that most strongly influenced Lewis in temporarily ending the strike, as he says: " . . . fitting respect due the dignity of this high tribunal imperatively requires that, during its period of deliberation, the court be free from public pressure superinduced by the hysteria and frenzy of an economic crisis."

Then, possibly as an afterthought, Lewis said: "In addition, public necessity requires the quantitative production of coal during such period."

Noteworthy is the fact that miners are ordered to return to work immediately, "under the wages, working hours and conditions of employment in existence on or before November 20, 1946"—which reveals the needlessness of all the hardships, industrial and transportation difficulties and relatively minor inconveniences that were unloaded on the country as a result of Lewis' stubborn attitude a few weeks ago.

Now—with the strike called off—the outstanding thought remains that such power continues in the hands of one man, to be exercised at will. It is this condition that must be remedied at the earliest possible moment!

Seek Uranium For Peacetime Use

IT IS REPORTED that Moscow grumbles and London wonders about, the newest U. S. expedition to the south polar regions. Reason for the grumbling and wondering, of course, is that the expedition plans to see what uranium deposits may be lurking under the ice cap of Antarctica.

It is already known that there are iron and coal in the region and the possibility of mining these will also be investigated. In fact, when the expedition was originally set up several years ago the mining study was the main objective. Since then the world has learned the importance of uranium in atomic fission.

Unhappily, men in general seem unable to take the view that the finding of uranium deposits in Antarctica, which could be mined, would be a great peacetime advantage. So sharply is the atom bomb etched in our thinking that we forget the vast possibilities atomic fission has for peacetime. We already know that uranium can supply a vast amount of heat and electric power. Its general use might prevent such disasters as the present coal crisis.

If Americans and their international neighbors can begin thinking in terms of the peaceful uses of uranium, it will be a great step toward world peace. It may help supplant fear and suspicion with planning and co-operation.

The Byrd expedition is a journey for the furthering of civilization. It should be regarded and reported as such.

Followers of the Golden Rule

THE WORLD still has many kindly, generous people who really care about their neighbors. In Detroit a new home was built with funds raised by friends of a young married woman paralyzed by polio. Doors were made wide enough to permit her being wheeled from room to room in the iron lung in which she must live. Mirrors were hung about aiding her to see every angle of the new home, and to permit her to supervise its care for herself and her young husband.

An Ohio couple who had lost their meager old age pension, their entire means of subsistance, found their kitchen table piled with contributions of food as well as money donations adding up to several times the sum lost. The gifts, coming as a result of a newspaper account of their misfortune, were largely from strangers, many of whom preferred to remain anonymous.

A little army of disinterested mountain climbers risked their lives recently to rescue the passengers of the airplane that crashed on an Alpine glacier. Expressing the gratitude of the survivors, one of them said: "You can't understand why there are wars when you see so many people willing to help you when you need it."

Interspersed with the headline news of crime, greed and strife it is heartening to find so many stories of human unselfishness.

Record Year For Crippling Strikes

OTHER RECORDS may be made in 1946 but two which will occasion regret rather than gratification are now uppermost in public thought—the increasing toll of traffic accidents and the amount of valuable time wasted by strikes.

A report by the bureau of labor statistics reveals that more than four million workers had walked off their jobs, as a result of labor disputes, up to November 1, with 400,000 soft coal miners bringing the total to 4.495,000—eclipsing by 335.000 the former record set in 1919.

Maritime strikes accounted for 9,500,000 man-days of work lost in September and October. The report also shows that conciliators settled 1,137 threatened strikes and other labor-management disputes during October.

Regardless of how bright the prospects for 1947 may appear, any such disturbed labor relations as have carried through this year will tend to stymie constructive efforts and will be heartening to all who contend that the American system of government is doomed to failure.

Awaiting Arrival of New Car

ONLY 3,000,000 automobiles, according to the present estimate, will be manufactured in 1946, as against 4,000,000 hoped for early in the year.

Considering that car ownership generally costs more than people realize, this means for many a compulsory saving of money. At a time when rising prices make all possible saving highly desirable, this delay may have its compensations.

THE RABBIT COULD WAIT TILL LATER

Welfare of the Nation Should Be First Concern In Labor Reform

By LOUIS BROMFIELD

THE TIME is approaching rapidly when the Republicans must present a program of reform—the reform and the limitation of the wholesale favoritism of organized labor above all other elements of society developed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and those about him. With the miners strike, the situation has become intolerable to the whole of the nation and the carrying out of the mandate of the recent election becomes more insistent.

At the CIO convention there was a great opportunity for organized labor to offer some constructive plan for labor-industry relations. No evidence whatever of constructive planning was forthcoming. On the contrary, the national CIO merely followed its course of asking for more and more privileges, more and more money, and even outlined the threat of still more strikes to disrupt the economy of the nation and the welfare of every individual citizen—most of all the working man himself. The emphasis was not upon increased production, lowered cost of commodities and the general stabilization of our economy, but only a cry for more and more money to speed the spiral of increasing wages and prices in which we are already so perilously entrapped.

BROMFIELD

The suggestion of General Dwight Eisenhower that the salvation of the nation lay in all of us going to work was received coldly and without applause.

The resolution against Communism, passed by the convention was a meaningless farce which actually serves not to suppress Communist activity within the ranks of the CIO but actually to encourage it.

Almost in the same breath, Philip Murray issued a call to the whole organization to give all-out support to a local union in Milwaukee, some of whose officers are known to be open or secret Communists and all of them open and ardent fellow-travelers.

The results of the Atlantic City convention were exactly the same as if Jay Gould, Jim Fiske, Frick and others of the 19th century Robber Barons had held a convention about 1890 to reform themselves.

Organized labor, or at least the CIO element, is asking for severe restrictions, exactly as the over-privileged banks and industrialists of the 19th century asked for restrictions and finally got them.

It can be said, I think with justice, that not one concession was made at the CIO convention, either to obviously expressed public sentiment or to the welfare of the nation as a whole.

In view of all this, it becomes evident that if organized labor will not change itself, it will become necessary for the nation to clip its wings by those same restrictive processes which were imposed upon the power-greedy and unscrupulous industrialists and money manipulators of a couple of generations ago.

The principle of the pendulum and the law of compensation have gone to work. The sentiment of the people has not only been displayed in the great numbers of Democrats and independent voters who voted Republican in the recent elections but also in the great numbers of union workers who everywhere did likewise.

The coal strike situation has only served to increase the feeling of the nation. It is highly probable that neither Bob Hannegan, who is in disgrace through the failure of his ward politics tactics, or Mr. Truman, even if he chooses to do so, will be able to check or prevent corrective labor-legislation either by influence or by veto power.

The problem today is not whether restrictive labor legislation will be passed but what its character will be.

There is one great danger—that such legislation will be superficial, vindictive, ill-balanced and predicated merely upon the immediate situation, rather than upon fundamentals related to changing economic and social conditions; upon that blend of socialism and democracy which becomes more and more practical and inevitable in the evolution of government in a complex industrial society and a complex closely-integrated world economy.

Certainly such legislation must not be merely anti-labor. It must include new concessions and privileges to labor, although they should not be of the same greedy nature as those which have marked the course of organized labor for the past three or four years.

It must contain some restrictions which are actually for the good of the working man himself rather than the good of the organized labor leaders alone.

It must include provisions for a greater security for the working man and union member, guaranteed by the state rather than by promises which, under so much of the New Deal legislation, have merely guaranteed opportunities for the labor leader to increase his income and his political power. More often than not, at the expense of the working man himself.

What some of the corrective provisions may be, the writer expects to explore in a following column.

It is all important that this new legislation be broad, corrective, permanent and with consideration of the good of the whole nation in mind.

The new congress will have an opportunity to write a constitution of good labor industrial relations.

Such a document would do more than any one thing to guarantee a future stabilized economy and avert the depression for which Henry Wallace and his radical friends are praying and plotting.

Fumbled Housing Program Still Disturbing.

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON—Overshadowed by the soft coal shutdown in immediate importance, but perhaps not in long-range significance, was the departure from the Washington official scene of Housing Expediter Wilson W. Wyatt.

After 12 of as hectic months as any bureau boss has had in current history, the angular, kewpie-faced lawyer from Louisville goes back to his blue-grass state, presumably to resume his much more lucrative private practice.

(Prewar private income: An estimated $50,000 to $100,000 annually. Government salary: $12,000 a year.)

As an individual, his resignation probably is no more and no less important than the exodus of countless federal officials who have picked up their hats and ambled out in recent months.

But if it heralds the end of emergency status for the national housing problem, it becomes the most important departure of this particular period.

Curiously, no one in the capital seems to know the answer to that question today.

Even the president's praise-filled acceptance of the Wyatt resignation gave no concrete clues. Said Mr. Truman at one point:

"The (housing) program must be given its proper emphasis in the over-all economy, and controls must be relaxed as rapidly as possible. . . . "

That would seem to indicate the end of the emergency status for the home-building program, for in normal times its proper place in the over-all national economy is far down the financial and federal ladder from the position of importance it has held in the past year.

However, Mr. Truman went on to say:

"Congress will be urged to give financial support to multi-unit low-rent apartments . . . " and "congress will again be requested to pass the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill which contains important provisions to stimulate rental housing, the absence of which has been a serious handicap to the veterans' emergency housing program of 1946."

That would seem to mean that the president considers the housing emergency still exists, and must be met.

Certainly such spokesmen as General Omar Bradley, Veterans Administration chief, believe the crisis still with us. Said Bradley:

"More than half of the married veterans at the time of their discharge had no established homes to which they could return. Only one out of every four veterans wedded while in service had homes at discharge for their wartime brides. . . . "

Bradley went on to say that "if the plight of these homeless veterans were spread with equal severity among other American people," it would mean more than 20,000,000 Americans in the same position.

Unstated but implied was the thought that in that case housing definitely would remain on an emergency basis.

Two days before Wyatt resigned, Ray Sawyer, new national commander of the American Veterans of World War II, said the same thing much stronger in relaying an Amvets' resolution to the president in a letter which concluded with a plea to "support your housing expediter in this great housing crisis."

For many of the real estate and financial groups which have consistently battled Wyatt and his program, acceptance of the expediter's resignation constituted a major victory. Said one real estate spokesman:

"Now we can get rid of this bureaucratic confusion and private enterprise can really get down to the job of building homes."

Exactly what will happen to the veterans' housing program now, no one seems to know.

A few found cheer in Mr. Truman's assertion that "this does not mean that any major modification in the objective of rapidly and adequately housing our veterans has occurred."

But when queries for comment about that presidential quotation, a bitter official high in the housing administration snapped over the phone:

"Sure. The best way to keep an objective unchanged is never to do anything definite about attaining it!"

Harsh words, those . . .

Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things that God hath prepared for them that love him.—1 Cor. 2:9.

TVA For Coal Industry Proposed By J. M. Cox, Former Governor

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Most important proposal for long-term settlement of the coal crisis has come from elder statesman James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and candidate for president against Warren Harding in 1920.

Cox urges an impartial body similar to the Tennessee Valley Authority to regulate the coal industry. Pointing out that the miners got the little end of the stick for many years, and the public is getting it today, he proposes that it is now time to make sure that all sides get a square deal; and that the way to do it is by regulation of the coal industry. The more you study the coal chaos, the more plausible Cox's proposal appears to be. In the Pennsylvania anthracite regions, for instance, mine operators have dug under towns to such extent that cave-ins have swallowed streets and houses.

PEARSON

Another problem is the removal of wooden mine props and coal mine pillars. The removal of wooden props causes cave-ins after a mine is abandoned: the retention of coal pillars leaves valuable coal underground never to be utilized by man.

Once a mine is abandoned, it is difficult, sometimes impossible, ever to bring to the surface the coal left therein.

Another problem is conflicting seams. Near Morgantown, W. Va., for instance, three seams run in close juxtaposition—the Waynesburg, which is near the surface, the Sewickley seam, 350 feet below, and the Pittsburgh seam, another 90 feet below that. If the Pittsburgh seam is mined ahead of the Sewickley seam, the latter is likely to work too far down and cave into the shafts of the Pittsburgh seam. And all these seams are mined by different conflicting owners.

While the mine operators have fought against government regulation of the coal mines, John L. Lewis also has been just as vehement against it—except in certain cases where he benefited. He has favored federal mine inspection, and in the early days of the New Deal he fathered the Guffey Coal Act which permitted coal operators to conspire to fix prices with the blessing of the government.

However, when Frank Hayes was president of the United Mine Workers back in the Wilson administration, he urged government regulation similar to that now proposed by ex-Governor Cox. When Lewis succeeded Hayes, though, one of the first things he did was to come out against government regulation.

If Lewis had stuck by previous UMW policy for government regulation, the whole history of mine workers' wages and welfare might have been different.

A-bombs to England.

Several weeks ago this columnist reported that the United States had given the basic portions of the atomic bomb to England. The story was immediately and vigorously denied.

However, as so often happens with diplomatic denials, telltale hints of the truth later leak out; and this week in New York, Senator Tom Connally made a speech in which he dropped a most significant disclosure. For some strange reason what he said was buried on the inside pages of the New York Times while other papers, as far as can be ascertained, ignored it.

What Senator Connally said was that Canada and Great Britain "now possessed the atomic bomb."

It is now possible to report additional details regarding the mysterious reported shipment of basic atomic bomb parts to northern England.

What was sent to England were the fissionable materials, in other words the explosive parts of the bomb which, when set off, cause so much damage. The British, however, were not given the bomb mechanism—the detonator device that sets the bomb off. This may have been omitted because of danger in shipping the bombs. (They were carried from the United States to England by air.) Or the mechanism may have been omitted for other reasons.

At any rate, without the mechanism the bomb is practically useless. In order to explode it, certain component materials must be brought together within 1/10,000,000th of a second. This achieves the chain reaction and atomic explosion. So far this has been the real headache for countries hoping to make atomic bombs.

For instance one portion of this trigger mechanism was developed at Cornell university after repeating one experiment more than 15,000 times.

Checked on Truman.

Following the Merry-Go-Round's revelations about bombs to Britain, the American Atomic Bomb Commission Chairman, Bernard Baruch, visited the chief Soviet delegate to the bomb commission, Andrei Gromyko, and had a conversation which throws interesting light on the general veracity of diplomatic denials.

"When we started this commission," Baruch said in effect, "I told you that Russia would receive equal treatment, no better and no worse than any other country. I want you to know that I called the president and he said we haven't sent any bombs to England."

"How do you know the president is telling the truth?" asked Gromyko.

"I know," replied Baruch, "because I checked up on him."

Note—Wonder what Gromyko thinks now that he has heard Senator Connally's statement that England and Canada now possess the atomic bomb?

Secret Coal Talks.

John L. Lewis and tycoon Cyrus Eaton of Cleveland have got tired of having their secret conversations in room 516 of the Carlton hotel leak out. One of their last strike settlement talks therefore was held in Warrenton, Va., in the very center of the fox-hunting country, at the home of Eaton's son-in-law.

Cyrus Eaton, whose prosperous Chesapeake and Ohio railroad faces financial setbacks if it ceases to carry coal, has been doing more than any one man to prod backstage negotiations. He has had the private blessing of the government, since it was Secretary of the Interior Krug who first urged Lewis to negotiate direct with the operators. Lewis at that time bluntly refused to do exactly what he is doing today.

At earlier conversations, Eaton had not been able to win Lewis over to an 18-month contract nor to go below 48 hours of pay for 40 hours of work.

At the Warrenton talk, however, Eaton warned that the operators were getting tougher and were ready to fight to a finish. With the government against the miners, he cautioned, the chances of winning were getting slimmer and slimmer.

Eaton's logic had its effect. Lewis finally relented. He authorized Eaton to tell the operators he would agree to a year's contract and nine hours of pay for an eight-hour day. Lewis insisted he had to get the miners' work-week cut down, since hours were longer in American mines than any place else in the world.

Eaton agreed to relay this proposal to the operators; and also said he would urge Ed Burke, former senator from Nebraska, and then head of the Southern Coal Producers association, to make a deal with Lewis.

It was after this secret parley that Eaton persuaded Burke to make his announcement calling for a resumption of direct negotiations.

In his eagerness to please Lewis, however, Eaton got Burke out on a limb. Burke didn't wait until he had lined up enough of his coal operators. Thus some of the most powerful members of his group not only were opposed to any compromise, but didn't like the fact that Burke gave the miners public encouragement by announcing that he was ready to negotiate.

So Burke resigned—a significant indication of how strongly some of the operators feel about any compromise to John L. Lewis.

Note—While many operators would go along with Lewis on a wage boost, probably would accept 45 hours of pay for 40 hours of work, they chiefly want an 18-month contract. They are bitterly opposed to negotiating in the dead of winter again when Lewis can so easily get them over a barrel.

Farmer's Diary

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

FROM DUST OF EARTH

IN GENESIS it is written that Man was made from the dust of the ground. I like the very thought of it. The quotation does not declare that his coming onto this earth was of humble and lowly origin. That idea is man's perversion. It says God made him in His own image out of this dust and that his body shall go back to that same dust which God used when he was created.

I am proud to be so intimately associated with dust . . . God's good earth. In substance it tells me, in a language common to all races and creeds, that I am very closely related to all the great and powerful that have ever lived—the kings, the wisdom of the aged, the fullness of youth, the passion of the dreamer, the innocence of a young child.

At every tick of Time's own clock, a million seeds swell, sprout and move upward to the light. Beyond human understanding is the glow of life and vigor in any common tree or garden plant. How much more the soul of man, that animates the being and illumines the mortal visage — supported from the dust which God has fashioned in his own celestial image. Man has that latent power to lift his higher, nobler self into the clear, restless atmosphere of growth, that he may understand more deeply the language of his Maker.

Over and over, as the ages glide away, that waste that has been part of the proudest or the humblest human life, and has found its level in common clay, is molded once again into living forms.

That dust of the earth, mixed in human tissues, in blood and bone, in brain and brawn, never ceases to struggle upward, more nobly than the plant or tree that rises high above the clod. The prize in human struggle is the ever widening reach for immortality that is always just beyond the grasp of groping fingers.

Not the foolish thought of self, but rather the sacrifice of this, that those who follow may know the riches of the more abundant life . . . else the struggle ceases and the groping fingers drop.

"Ah, but man's reach should exceed his grasp,
Or what's a heaven for?"

Dave Boone Says:

IT SEEMS to me that the supreme court and the government will be contributing without reason to the national misery and chaos if, between 'em, some way isn't found to clear the path for a swift ruling on the Lewis appeal. It's hard to associate the bench with speed, but here's its chance to show the people of America that it recognizes an emergency when it sees one, and without a five-to-four split.

* * *

And it's high time the presidency of the United States was restored to its position as an office on the ground floor and not a seat in the gallery during a national crisis.

* * *

There isn't an American anywhere who isn't wondering where and how firmly the president stands at the moment. At all grave periods in our history the voice of a president has helped guide the republic.

* * *

Yet Harry Truman has never been so silent in his life. Gosh, if there ever was a time when a situation didn't call for a pantomimist this is it, so it's good to know that he has at least decided to talk to the nation by radio tonight.

CHRISTMAS LOOKS BLEAK FOR FAMILY

Adj. R. L. Gutterman of the Volunteers of America last night issued a plea for bedding and clothing as a vitally needed "Christmas gift" to a Rihland county family which lost its home and most of its furnishing in a fire three days ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dotson and their three children who until Wednesday night lived at a Lexington, R. D. 1 addres, lost everything except a few pices of furniture firemen were able to salvage from the home fire. The barn on the property was destroyed three weeks ago.

"The Volunteers have been able to supply them with nearly enough furniture to begin housekeeping again, but bedding and clothing, especially a baby's layette, are urgently needed," Adj. Gutterman said.

Mrs. Dotson gave birth to a daughter Tuesday, the day before the fire razed the family home.

Adj. Gutterman asked that anyone wishing to donate clothing or bedding should call the Volunteers at 4578-6.

TOWN MOVED WITH DEPOT—Shiloh, in the northern part of Richland county, was first called Salem but when the depot was moved from that crossroads to its present site, the town moved along and later became "Shiloh" after the Civil War battle. George Cockburn, 80, Shiloh's oldest native, sits at his radio (left) and recalls the town's early history. At right top is the present Main Street. (News-Journal Photo for George Petrovic).

Richland Village Named After Civil War Battle

By NITA BRANSON

The Big Four depot is such an integral part of Shiloh's growth, that old timers say, "as the depot went so went the town."

That is literally true!

George Cockburn, who was born in Shiloh 80 years ago, remembers his father, William, telling about the first Big Four depot being built at a little crossroads northeast of the present site and then called Salem.

That was about 1860 as nearly as oldtimers in Shiloh can remember. Later, the railroad decided to move the depot to its present site and the town went right along.

After the Civil war, the name was changed to Shiloh after the famous battle of that name between the Union and Confederate forces.

COCKBURN CAN LOOK BACK a good many years to his family's history in Shiloh.

"My father was a sailor out from Edinburgh," he said "He made many trips to the United States. The last time he came it took him three months and when he landed in New York, he decided to stay in America. So he came to Shiloh and settled here."

Mrs. Cockburn, who for a number of years in the '90s, was correspondent for the old Mansfield Shield and Banner, remembers that the Big Four railroad played a particularly important part in the days when Barton and Guthrie had one of the largest poultry distributing businesses in the state.

* * *

"THEY USED TO SHIP HUNdreds of dressed chickens over the Big Four road to Cleveland," she recalls, "but that, like so many other of Shiloh's old business concerns, went out when the trucks began rolling along the road and chickens were easier to get."

That depot also played a vital part in Mrs. Cockburn's own life.

"I got most of my news at the depot," she recalled. "We had no telephones then, so I had to get my news wherever I could. Some of it I learned at social gatherings —but a great deal I got down at the depot when the trains arrived."

Mrs. Cockburn has always taken an active part in all Shiloh's civic affairs, according to her husband.

"She was the first woman president of any school board in the state," he said proudly.

IT WAS MRS. TULLY A. Barnes, whose husband is president of the Shiloh Savings Bank company, who remembered the town's biggest celebration.

"That was in 1876," she recalls, "and Shiloh celebrated the 100th anniversary of the birthday of Independence. It was held on July 4th and everyone for miles around came to the town.

"I remember my mother had a big clothes basket full of food, ready for the day's picnic dinners. Of course there were no restaurants and everyone who lived in the town had to prepare huge quantities of food for the visitors."

The centennial celebration of the Mt. Hope Lutheran church in 1942 was another occasion for Shiloh's townfolks. Today Shiloh stands snugly on the main highway, serene and content in the knowledge that while it may not be as "lively" as it used to be, it can share in the general prosperity and progress of Richland county.

TRUNK PROVES POOR SAFE

OHIO STRIP MINING LICENSE BILL ASKED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The Ohio Strip Mining commission has agreed to present to next month's legislature a bill to license operators of Ohio strip mines producing more than 250 tons of coal annually and to require operators and owners of stripped land to post bond guaranteeing certain measures will be taken to restore stripped areas.

Strip mines producing less than 250 tons of coal yearly would be exempt from the proposed legislation approved by the commission in its meeting here Friday.

What Winter Sports Do You Like?

(Conducted this week by Art Anderson).

QUESTION: What are your favorite winter sports or hobbies and how do you like to spend long winter evenings?

JOHN H. MEYERS, 151 West Third street. "I have several winter sports that I enjoy. I like to watch football and hockey games. I have been a rooter for Mansfield Tyger football and basketball teams, regardless of whether they were a winning or a losing team. I really got enthusiastic about the football team this year. I probably spend more time in the winter at bowling than any other sport. I bowl three nights a week with the Moose club, Home Interiors and the Nickles bakery. My score has been up and down, but I did roll a 235 once this fall."

MRS. J. E. GODDARD, Mt. Gilead. "I have spent the last two winters in Los Angeles dodging rain and now I'll have to get used to dodging the snow. This winter I will probably spend most of my time taking care of our baby. I like to bowl but haven't been able to do much of it recently. I like to read mystery stories in the evening. Several years ago I began collecting salt and pepper shakers and I have about 100 of them now."

John Meyers Vivian Bader

MISS VIVIAN BADER, 47 Florence avenue. "My favorite pastime in winter is dancing. Vaughn Monroe's orchestra is my favorite. Went to Cleveland last Sunday to dance to his music and again on Wednesday to shop, but I just had to go back to dance to his music before returning to Mansfield. I like ice skating, and I don't think Mansfield has enough ice. I bowl and collect records of popular pieces."

* * *

W. B. HUBER, 46 Hoffman avenue. "I like to hunt pheasants and rabbits, but have been too busy the last few years to spend as much time at it as I would like to. I made a trip in the vicinity of Findlay but didn't have much luck. I like to spend my evenings reading scientific, mechanics, and sports magazines. I read "Outdoor Life" and "Sports Afield" regularly. I like to attend football and basketball games."

GEORGE P. FORD, 54 North Adams street. "My favorite winter sport is hockey. I'm a Cleveland Barons fan. I go to watch them play whenever I get a chance. I like hockey because it is fast and exciting. I got started playing cards in the Army and I like to spend my evenings playing cards and visiting with friends. I like to dance and would go more often if there were more good orchestras visiting Mansfield. I also bowl a lot for exercise."

MRS. FRED MARLOW, 107 Washington avenue. "I like best to spend my evenings playing bridge. My husband and I play a lot and then too we belong to a bridge club, so we really play quite a bit during the winter months. I like to crochet and embroider, and have finished several pillow cases already this winter. We also go to the movies quite a bit in the winter."

George Ford Frank Garrison

DAVE HURLEY, 623 West Fourth street. "My favorite winter sport is basketball. I play center with the Mansfield Tygers. I like basketball because it is a fast game. I find that being tall comes in handy. I also like to ice skate, which I do in North Lake park when it freezes over.

FRANK GARRISON, 398 Wayne street. "My favorite sport the year around is riding my motorcycle. I ride to work every day and take trips on weekends when the weather isn't too bad. I like to feel the cool breeze blowing past my face. I am a member of the Mansfield Motorcycle club. To fill my evenings I go to the movies two or three times a week. My favorite stars are Humphrey Bogart, Errol Flynn and Bing Crosby.

Give Yule Concert For OSR Inmates

Eugene Smart's Accordion band will play its 25th annual Christmas concert in the Mansfield Reformatory auditorium this afternoon, continuing the traditional entertainment program planned for the inmates each Yule season.

The concert will be open to guests of the inmates, who have been provided for in the auditorium seating plan. The concert, estimated to last an hour and a half, will begin at 1:30 p. m.

Featured in the concert will be: Shirley Lay, Roger Pfahler, Arlcen Christman, Leile Bowser, Margaret Ann Pittinger of Shelby, Marilyn Joyce Teeter, Mary Schreffler and Elaine Wilkins.

SIMPSON GROUPS SPONSOR PROGRAM

The Parent-Teacher association of John Simpson Junior high school and the Music Booster club will combine to sponsor a Christmas program in the school auditorium Thursday at 8 p. m.

"The Tree," a Christmas comedy in one act, by Ellen Laura McMartin, will be presented by the students of the dramatic class. Miss Louise Lynch of the English department at John Simpson will direct the play.

Music for this Christmas program will be given by glee club groups of students under the supervision of Miss Fannie Lou Iler and Mrs. Virginia Allen.

Preceding the program, the PTA and Music Booster club will hold a joint business meeting in room No. 207. This meeting is scheduled to be brief, but important business will be transacted, officials said.

AUTO KILLS BOY

ADA—(AP)—Gary Lee Dodge, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elza Dodge, was killed Friday by an automobile.

RELATES STORY OF OSU GROWTH

A detailed picture of post-war student enrollment at Ohio State university was given by Frederick J. Stecker, manager of the Ohio Union, at the annual meeting of Richland county alumni Friday night.

Thirty-two attended the dinner at the Mansfield-Leland hotel over which Richard Stander presided. Atty. C. H. Huston served as toastmaster and introduced Stecker, former Mansfield man.

Stecker said that prior to the war the total enrollment at any given year was 13,000. Now veterans alone total over 14,000 he said and the total enrollment is 25,000.

Stecker pointed out that, regardless of the crowding, not one qualified Ohio applicant was turned away. All veterans, he said, have been housed in some way.

"One of the most interesting things about the situation," he said, "is that the veterans have raised the scholastic standard in the university and non-vets are hard put to it to keep up. Furthermore, the vets have put even the instructors on their toes.

"More than 50 per cent of the veterans," he explained, "are employed part time in order to help out with their expenses."

In planning meetings for the county alumni, Stander said that an effort will be made to re-build the chapter to its pre-war membership and activity strength.

Court Continues Delinquency Case

Clifford Bowman, 37, of Shelby R. D. 2, pleaded innocent yesterday to a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl and his case in juvenile court was continued.

The charge against Bowman grew out of claims that he induced the girl to remain away from her home late at night and to become a truant from school. The girl was charged with truancy.

NAMES MANSFIELD PLANT IN ACTION

The Humphryes Manufacturing Company yesterday was named defendant in a $4,000 suit filed in Federal court in Cleveland by Anton Breinich.

Breinich, who said he was employed by the company as clerk from Nov. 6, 1943, to June 2, 1945, claimed $2,000.23 due in overtime wages under the Fair Labor Standards act and asked a like amount in damages.

JURY DISMISSED

RENO, Nev.—(AP)—After nine hours of deliberation a deadlocked jury in the murder trial of Mary Drew, Paterson, N. J., ex-WAC, was dismissed Saturday by Judge William McKnight.

Walter White, Native Georgian, Analyzes Gvernor Ellis Arnall

By WALTER WHITE

What manner of man is actually Ellis Arnall of Georgia? How genuinely does the man who Henry Noble McCracken declares to be the "only Democrat who can win in 1948" believe in the things for which he has fought—balancing of budgets, abolishing freight rate differentials between North and South, bettering educational facilities and penal institutions, lowering the voting age to 18 years and wiping out the poll tax? Did he fight for such objectives because he cannily sensed a coming Southern revolt against the Talmadges and Bilbos, as some of his critics assert, or is he the kind of man who would sacrifice career for principle? Is he outstanding judged by absolute standards of integrity and ability or only by contrast with a vulgar demagogue like Talmadge? Is he a flash in the pan or one destined to go far in Southern and national politics?

WHITE

These were the questions uppermost in mind as the C-54 winged its way to New Orleans on Nov. 30 where I was scheduled to speak on the occasion of the presentation of the annual Thomas Jefferson Award to the Georgia governor by the Southern Conference for Human Welfare. Several years ago President Roosevelt had suggested to me that I ought to know Ellis Arnall as a significant new type of Southern officeholder. But the governor has replied to my letter in a tone which quite definitely indicated that he thought it best not to be known to have talked with one who had sharply attacked certain Georgia practices, even if the meeting were held in Washington or New York. Having just read Governor Arnall's "The Shore Dimly Seen," an extraordinary and eloquent mixture of farsighted liberalism and of over-simplification of the South's shortcomings and ills, I was eager to meet in the flesh the man who had so revolutionized politics in my native Georgia.

ELLIS ARNALL LOOKS EVEN younger than his 38 years make him appear in photographs. His round face and chubby body gives him a cherubic appearance. He grips the sides of the lectern and rises on the balls of his feet in the tensity of his emotion, using no other gestures. His voice is firm and clear with little trace of Southern accent except in the use of "Ah" for the first person singular pronoun. At New Orleans he mounted the stage tense and uneasy because of the attacks which, inexplicably, had been made upon him by the liberal Atlanta Constitution for acceptance of the Jefferson Award from an organization which a New Orleans outfit called the Young Men's Business League had attacked as "red" because it had refused to segregate the races in its meetings.

Arnall is a practical man. Politics is his business, as he freely admits in his "The Shore Dimly Seen." He is well aware of the fact that he must not offend too much the backward local Democratic machines nor the Northern industrial interests which control the South's economy if he ever hopes to become president or vice-president or gain other high office.

BUT ARNALL HAS COURAGE. All kinds of pressure were brought to bear on him and on Governor-elect Jim Folsom, of Alabama, who was scheduled to make the presentation of the Thomas Jefferson Award, to cancel the engagement. At the last moment Mr. Folsom telegraphed his regrets. But Governor Arnall appeared and made a down-to-earth speech on what the South needs to cure its maladies. The Georgia governor blasted both the extreme left and the extreme right with equal vigor, voicing concern at the numerous signs of the growth of authoritarian philosophy in the South and in the country at large.

"Personally, I consider the danger of fascism more immediate and serious in the United States than the danger of communism," he declared. "There is no ready comparison between the destinies in our common country and the destinies in China."

"The American menace comes from the extreme right, where men of ill will are deliberately using the lunatic fringe to create a condition faborable to the establishment of a totalitarian state," he declared as a preface to making the following very pertinent charge, "When you see phalanxes of storm troopers being organized and outfitted with uniforms . . . you will know that somebody, somewhere, is financing hate publications on a par with those of Streicher, and realize that the preaching of national hate and religious intolerance is the standard formula-for-power of the totalitarians."

BUT THE GEORGIA GOVERnor indicated that he has not yet completely outgrown sectionalism. One gained the impression that he still retained some traces of the defensive psychology of Southerners. In attempting to find a scape goat, Governor Arnall blamed "colonialism" and "outside interference and exploitation." There is no doubt that Northern banks and manufacturers own and control most of the large industries located in the South.

There is evidence that these owners do not want to see Southern labor organize and are willing and eager to use racial and other schisms cold-bloodedly and deliberately to keep both whites and Negroes living at a sub-marginal standard. But the blame for the present condition of the South does not lie as completely North of the Smith and Wesson line as Governor Arnall's speech and his recently published book indicate.

Governor Arnall is a growing man. He is destined to loom increasingly on not only the Southern but the national scene as well. His is a new type of leadership not yet completely developed to cope with national and international problems but, barring misfortune or mistake, developing rapidly to that end.

PERHAPS GOVERNOR Arnall's greatest contribution and that of the small but significant group of men who think as he does, particularly among the younger generation of Southerners, is in the trend which I sought to point out at New Orleans.

For three centuries the symbol of Southern success has been the politician or other leader who attained power by ruthless capitalization of race hatred. The eminence which Governor Arnall has attained both in Georgia and in the country at large demonstrates to ambitious Southerners that even greater fame can be achieved by possession of courage to attack Southern evils and do something about them.

Thus Governor Arnall's future and that of men who possess his ability and courage will determine in large measure whether the South shall continue to follow men like Bilbo, Rankin and Talmadge with disastrous consequences for the South and America, or whether they will set their faces forward towards human decency and enlightenment.

Famed Scientist Played In Loudonville In Youth

R. F. BACHER HELPED DESIGN ATOMIC BOMB

Aunt Recalls How He Talked of 'Billions, Trillions'; Termed Unusual Child.

By NORMAN DRESSER
(State Editor, News-Journal)

LOUDONVILLE — Although Robert F. Bacher, who was born here Aug. 31, 1905, was a very normal child in most respects, his aunt recalled yesterday how "he used to talk about millions, billions and trillions."

"We often remarked that he was a very unusual child, and I used to wonder what he would do when he grew up," Mrs. Zoe Workman, Bacher's aunt, recollected.

Today he is Dr. Robert F. Bacher, one of America's outstanding nuclear physicists and a member of the Atomic Energy commission, which has been charged by President Truman with one of the gravest and most important tasks ever handed a group of five men—to chart the future of atomic energy.

BACHER WAS THE SON OF Harry Bacher and Byrl Fox Bacher. The family moved to Ann Arbor, Mich., when he was three years old, but he often visited relatives in Loudonville during his youth.

He still has many relatives in this section of Ohio, including Dr. and Mrs. G. B. Fuller, of Loudonville, and Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Lean, of Wooster.

But Mrs. Workman knew him best in his childhood, as he spent many happy summers with her and her late husband, Howard, when the couple operated a greenhouse near Loudonville.

"Robert loved to play with the other children," Mrs. Workman said. "But he used big words and figures and seemed to have a scientific turn of mind."

Mrs. Workman recalled particularly how Robert "loved to roll a hoop." He had his own special hoop, she said, and he insisted on using the same one always "because it rolled better." He used to hide it from summer to summer, she said.

HIS AUNT STILL RECALLS with amusement Robert's first experience with tobacco — that unique, and often unpleasant experiment which nearly every young boy undergoes.

"It seems he was going the rounds with the delivery man on the flower truck and the man was allowing him to take a few puffs of smoke occasionally," Mrs. Workman said.

LOUDONVILLE MEMBER OF COMMISSION—Dr. Robert F. Bacher, a native of Loudonville, many years ago played on his aunt's farm near Loudonville. Today he's a member of the Atomic Energy commission and one of our most noted nuclear physicists.

"My husband, Mr. Workman, found it out and questioned Robert. The young fellow replied that his father had told him if he ever wanted to smoke 'he'd buy me a good cigar.'

"So Mr. Workman said, 'all right, I'll let you smoke my pipe one of these days.' Finally, one evening after Robert had kept asking, my husband decided it was a good time to let Robert try his pipe.

"The boy began to puff on it and choke, and then he would puff again," Mrs. Workman said. "His face got red, but he just wouldn't give up. I told him he didn't have to smoke it, for he might get sick.

"'Sick,' Robert replied. 'Gosh, Aunt Zoe, everything is going around now,'" Mrs. Workman quoted the boy.

HE SPENT MOST OF HIS childhood and youth in Ann Arbor. He entered the University of Michigan in 1922, studying there for eight years. He received a doctor of philosophy degree in 1930.

In that year Dr. Bacher married Miss Jean Dow, of Ann Arbor. The couple now have two children, Martha, 10, and Andrew Dow, 8

During the next decade, Dr. Bacher was a physics teacher at Columbia university, New York, and at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y., rapidly advancing into the higher phases of physics and nuclear studies.

IN THE EARLY YEARS OF the war he was placed in charge of the division of radar receiver and indicator components at the Radiation laboratory at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at Cambridge, Mass. This laboratory then was engaged in secret research for the government.

A few years later he was ordered to the Los Alamos Atomic Bomb project, where he remained until the first of this year. In 1944-45, he was chief of the Bomb Physics division at Los Alamos, scene of the first atomic bomb explosion.

At present Dr. Bacher is professor of physics and director of the laboratory of nuclear studies at Cornell university; scientific consultant to the U. S. representative to the United Nations Atomic Energy commission, and member of the scientific advisory committee of the Manhattan Engineer District.

He is the author of a book on atomic energy and of various scientific papers on atomic spectra, nuclear moments and neutron properties.

DR. BACHER TOLD THE News-Journal that one of the major questions which face the world today is "how do we obtain the benefits of atomic energy without suffering from its destructive effects in war?"

"In order to answer this question, some estimate must be given of the possible peacetime benefits," he said. "The peacetime uses of atomic energy will be very far reaching and important to the advance of our civilization.

"The nuclear reactors which have been developed and the radioactive materials which they produce as by-products already are being applied to the advance of medicine, biology, chemistry, physics, metallurgy and other branches of engineering.

"The development of the peacetime uses of atomic energy is one of the main duties of the newly-apointed Atomic Energy commission."

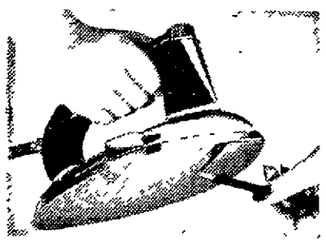
Betty Crocker PRESENTS THE NEW
General Mills Tru-Heat Iron

Betty Crocker
SAYS:
"Of all the automatic irons my staff and I have tried, we find we do better ironing, do it faster and feel fresher afterwards when we use our new General Mills Tru-Heat Iron."

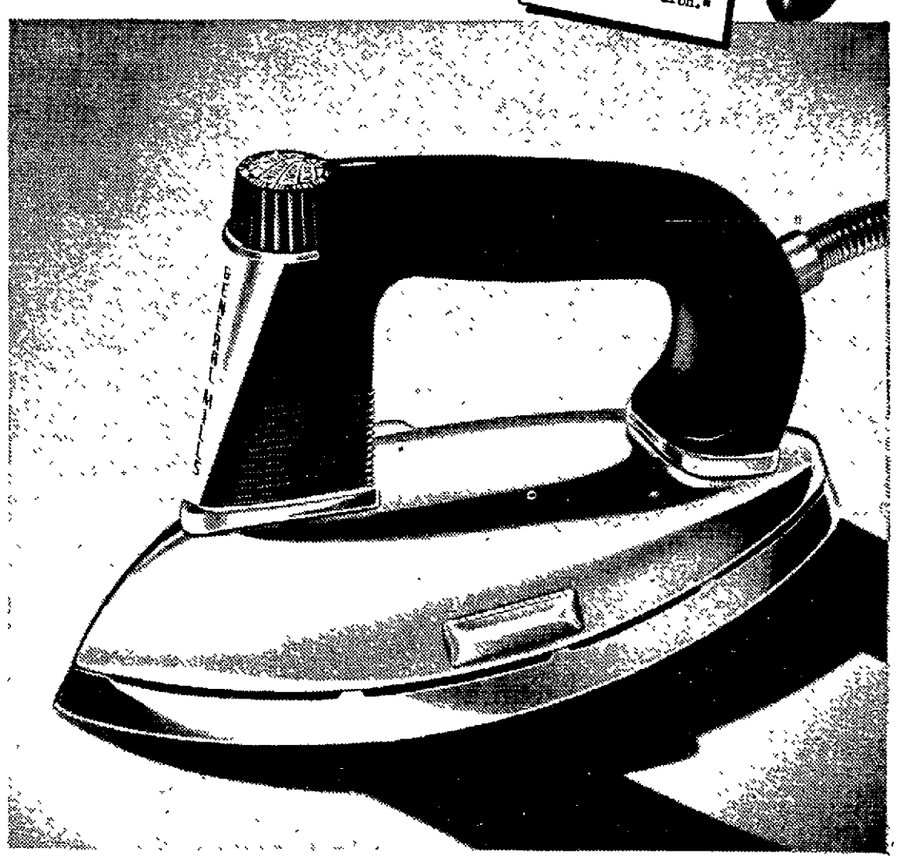
COVERS MORE IRONING at every stroke. The soleplate is 15 7% larger, 28% longer, than the average of five other leading irons. New shape reaches hard-to-get-at places with either end. Button Bevel Edge is slanted all around—any part slips easily under buttons.

RESTS ON ITS SIDE. Stays put on its low Safety Side Rest, with little danger of falling. Takes 15% less effort to roll it on its side than to lift an iron up onto a heel rest or separate stand. Yes, it's safer and easier to use!



THE SURFACE THAT IRONS the fabric is part of the Tru-Heat Control, the most accurate known type of iron heat regulator. What wonderful protection for delicate modern fabrics!

IT'S RIGHT IN WEIGHT. Accurately controlled heat does the job . . . not weight or pressure. Weighs only 3¾ pounds . . . right weight for easy ironing.



HERE'S THE IRON to make every ironing day shorter . . . to make all your ironing easier. It has new, safe, accurate Tru-Heat Control to speed ironing and protect delicate fabrics. Its Safety Side Rest takes the "muscle" out of ironing. Its 4-Way, Full-Vue Ironing Surface is longer, larger to cover more ironing at every gliding stroke. See the new General Mills Tru-Heat Iron as soon as you can . . . at stores where you'd expect to find the best in home appliances.

BUCYRUS TEACHERS ASK PAY INCREASE

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus city school teachers again approached the school board wth the question of a teachers' salary schedule when the board had its regular meeting late last week, timing the latest approach as a follow-up to the recent voters' approval to a three mill school levy.

Miss Ione Hertzer, Crawford school principal, served as spokesman for the teachers, who are requesting a salary schedule with a minimum annual pay of $2,000 and maximum of $3,400. Teachers now receive a minimum of $1,250 plus a $250 cost of living increase, granted to all teachers at the beginning of this school year.

The school board also was confronted with a shortage of coal within the next month. Supt. D. C. Baer reported a 10 days supply still on hand at the high school and sufficient coal in the elementary buildings to last until the middle of January or first of February, barring extreme weather.

B. A. Stevens, assistant secretary for research of the OEA, led the discussion on the two recommendations, one to increase basic state support from $44 to $58 per child and the second to broaden the state foundation program to equalize educational facilities by raising the minimum supporting level from $66.50 to $106 per pupil in daily attendance.

Adoption of the two recommendations would mean an increase in Crawford county schools of approximately $73,000.

Galion Loses Good Neighbor As Mrs. Ingram, 80, Moves

GALION—"Don't worry; meet the situation when it comes, and then meet it courageously."

That is the philosophy of Mrs. Agnes Ingram, who looks 65, but will be 80 next Jan. 14.

Mrs. Ingram has been active in the Presbyterian church, its missionary society and guild, the Order of Eastern Star and its embroidery circle. She left Galion last week to make her future home at the Presbyterian home in Sidney, Ohio. Although she regrets leaving her friends here, she is applying her philosophy and is looking forward to enjoying her life in Sidney.

In Galion, Mrs. Ingram lived at 522½ Harding way east. She sold all of her household goods in preparation to going to Sidney. For the past eight years she has lived in Galion, and made many friends here. She came here from Crestline.

She taught school in the primary department in 1888 and continued for several years before her marriage to the late Alexander H. Ingram. Then the couple went to Florida to live for 28 years. In 1927 she moved back to Crestline.

Spotlight special—"Say, see that car? Sure is sharp! Wish I had one like it." Object of this admiration is Waunetah Jarman's 1929 Ford. No ordinary Ford this, no sir. Waunetah, a senior, having some spare time during the summer really fixed the car up—but good. Taking paint brush in hand she sketched two jitterbugs on the back, added "Mammy" and "Pappy" Yokum on the sides and a skunk on one door and wolf decked out in his Sunday best on the other. To top it all off, two tiger, er is it Tyger, heads glare defiantly from the front. Pretty original gal!

"Technically perfect" was the description Mrs. Aileen Brinkerhoff gave "The Dark Wood" by Christine Weston when she reviewed the current novel yesterday afternoon. The book review was the last in the series sponsored by the Women's Association of the First Congregational church and was given in the Larwill room of the Public library.

The novel is a story of readjustment following the war. The plot is woven around the lives of Stella Harmon whose vital, attractive husband was killed in Italy, Col. Mark Bycroft, a man embittered by his wife's divorce on his return from four years of active duty, and Miriam and Dick Sparrow Stella's best friends.

The focal point of the narrative is Stella's struggle to accept the fact that her husband is dead and that she could find happiness with Mark Bycroft.

Perhaps it is because it is impossible for any reviewer to transmit perfections of style, inherent in the actual writing of the book, to the audience that this reviewer found the choice of the novel unfortunate for the last in a series in which the former two choices were excellent. While "The Dark Wood" may be mechanically perfect, the plot had all the sentimentality and triteness of plot characteristic of the usual magazine serial. It was only the fact that Mrs. Benninghoff presented the review in her usual dramatic and highly entertaining manner that made yesterday afternoon's review distinctive at all.

Selection of Christmas Books To Delight the Younger Set

Do you want a book for Christmas? Do you want to give a book for Christmas? Are you wondering what book to give for Christmas? If so, this list may help you. These are only a few of the many lovely and worthwhile books that are available but each of these is worth getting or giving.

Here are suggestions for the youngest readers.

"Little Island," by Golden MacDonald. In the middle of the ocean was a little island. Spring and summer came to the island and changed it. In these summer came a little kitten who thought he was a "little island of fur in the air." When summer was gone winter came, the kitten and all the people went away and left the island alone. The story is lovely and the pictures are lovelier.

"When it Rained Cats and Dogs," by Nancy Byrd Turner. Here is the old familiar expression carried to its logical conclusion. It did rain cats and dogs one day and here are pictures to prove it.

"Rooster Crows," by Maud and Miska Petersham. A collection of nursery rhymes and counting out rhymes, both old and new, accompanied by the illustrations that won the Caldecott medal for the "best illustrated book" for 1945.

"Mother Goose," illustrated by Tenggren. A delightful combination of verse and pictures that are bound to delight any small child.

"Magic Michael," by Louis Slobodkin. Michael turned into things, snakes and giraffes and cows until one day he found that it was best to be a plain boy.

"Once There Was a Little Boy," by Dorothy Kunhardt. Mary tells Jesus the story of his birth and the strange events which happened, just as every mother tells her child what happened "when you were a baby."

These books are suggested for children eight to ten.

"Miss Hickory," by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey. Miss Hickory was left alone for the winter. That wasn't as bad as it sounds because she was made of an apple twig and a hickory nut. The animals helped her and when spring came Miss Hickory found a perfect home.

"Wonderful Year," by Nancy Barnes. Ellen hadn't wanted to move to Colorado but found that with new friends, new home and the excitements of storms and getting lost that her first year there was truly "wonderful."

"Cowboy Boots," by Shannon Garst. Bob found that being a cowboy didn't just happen without any work but when he finally won his boots he knew that the work and trying had been worth it.

"Plain Princess," by Phyllis McGinley. A princess ought to be beautiful and Esmerelda wasn't. She had everything and she still wasn't even pretty. It took powerful magic to make her lovely but Dame Goodwit made it work.

"Harriet," by Charles McKinley. Harriet happened to be a horse but she loved hats. The story of how she got "the hat" is full of fun and humor.

"Prince Godfrey," by Halina Gorska. Twelve prophecies were made about the baby and all came true. Here are twelve stories of beauty, courage and daring of how Prince Godfrey went the prophecied way. The illustrations are unusually lovely.

CANINE (THE DOG!) SHOOTS WOMAN IN TUB

Animals' Gun Victims Head Freak Accident Parade.

CHICAGO —(AP)— Gun-shooting animals that bagged humans headed the freak accidents parade this year.

It used to be news when a man bit a dog. But in 1946, a dog shot a woman, a kangaroo blasted a man, a rabbit wounded a sportsman and a deer disarmed a hunter.

And a salmon blew itself into the act with a sneeze that wrecked a car.

The national safety council listed these oddities in its annual roundup of unusual accidents:

Mrs. Ruth Patterson was enjoying an uneventful bath in her Baltimore home when her police pup, Toby, spied a gun on the washstand. It put its paw in the trigger and let Mrs. Patterson have it right in the bathtub—or more specifically, right in the hand.

Kangaroo Shoots Back.

Arthur Crosbie, an Australian hunter, shot a kangaroo through the hind legs. He reloaded his rifle and put the butt on the animal's neck to pin it down. The kangaroo twined a forepaw around the trigger and shot Crosbie through the arm.

Near Louisville, Ky., a rabbit took exception to the activities of William Humphrey, 16-year-old hunter. It reached out from his game bag, pulled the trigger of his gun and shot him in the foot.

A buck deer staged a marine-style rescue act to save another buck deer from Del Halstead. Hunting near Buckhorn Station, Calif., Halstead had just trained his sights on a deer when the second one bounced out of a thicket behind him, struck him in the back and sent him sprawling.

The celebrated salmon was caught by James Mantakes of La Grange, Ore., who tossed it into the rear seat of his car and started for home across the sandy plains. The salmon, Mantakes said, gave out with a lusty sneeze when desert dust blew into its gills. Startled, Mantakes whirled around. At that moment a grasshopper came flying in the car window and the salmon made a lunge and landed in Mantakes lap. The car went crashing off the road.

Humans, too, caused their share of odd accidents. Take the case of a flying wood chip. Forty-two years ago, Pete Bird, Shelbyville, Ky., was chopping a log when a chip struck him in the eye, causing a cataract and blindness. Mr. Bird chopped wood again this year and a chip hit him in the same eye, tore the cataract loose and restored his sight.

Boy Shakes Things.

Robert Marth, 16-year-old Plymouth, Wis., boy killed a sparrow, but broke 650 windows and destroyed a wagon in the process. The youth's rifle shot missed the sparrow perched on the farm wagon but hit the wagon's 1,300 pound load of dynamite which went off.

In Fairmount City, Mo., fire started in an auto from a short circuit but the blaze thoughtfully set off the horn and sounded its own alarm.

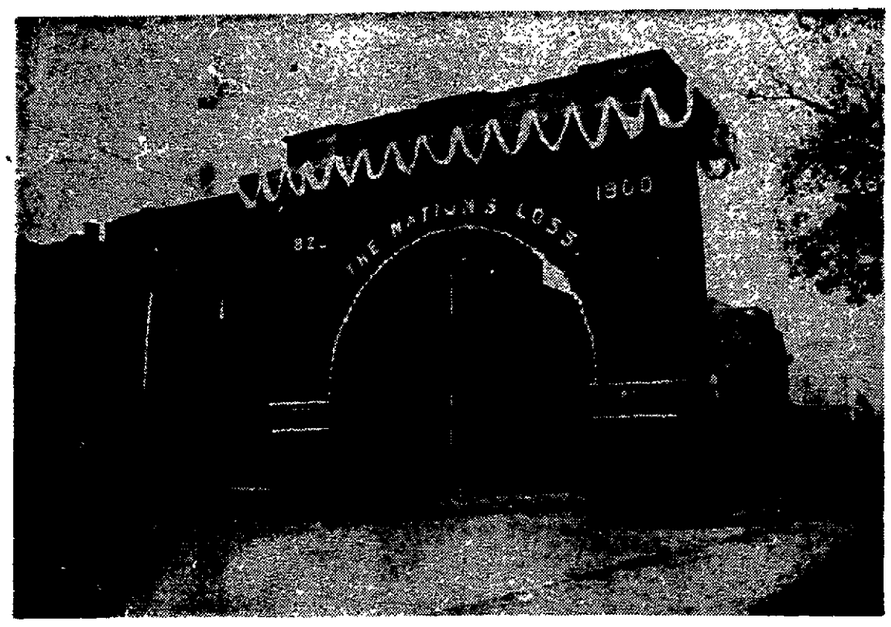
A similarly obliging blaze started in a Hugo, Okla., tavern, burned off a hydrant cap, released a stream of water and drowned itself.

Mrs. Ralph Gilmore of Philadelphia hurried across the room to turn up the volume on a radio safety broadcast, tripped on a rug and fell, suffering minor injuries.

Youngest victim of an accident was an unborn girl. Her mother, Mrs. Arthur Laughton was shot in a hunting accident at Winthrop, Me., and the baby was born prematurely, a bullet wound in her left thigh.

DIES FOR PEACE

NEW YORK—(UP)—Simon P. Diamantopoulos, 59, Greek ambassador to the United States, died of a heart attack early Saturday morning while conferring with his premier in a hotel suite, and Compatriots said Saturday he worked himself to death fighting for his country at the peace tables.



ALL AGREE—When 16 persons agree on something, it must be so. That many Richland county residents were of the opinion that last Sunday's album picture was not one of "construction" but of "destruction," and showed the old Mansfield Light and Power company plant on North Main street, below Sixth, just after the flywheel on the engine had given way and damaged the building. Mrs. Paul Raudabaugh, 139 Pleasant avenue, recalls that she had just taken a lunch pail to one of the men working there when the flywheel let loose. She ran all the way home, almost scared out of her wits. Mrs. Clyde L. Myers, 744 Millsboro road, says the man behind the post at the left was her father, Peter Spriesterbach, a carpenter working at the power house. According to "old timers", Mansfield was without light and street car service for several days following that accident which occurred about 1915. Besides Mrs. Raudabaugh and Mrs. Myers, others who identified the picture were William J. Harrison, William A. Harris, H. O. Shortess, Harry DeLaney, Elmer F. Mast, Detective Lee Remy, Martin Grimm, L. E. Burnham, Ralph J. Harris, C. H. Massa, E. C. Skeese, C. H. Damlos, all of Mansfield, and Henry E. Hubbs of Shelby and Glenn Baer of Lucas. Can you identify this week's picture?

Up and Down The Street

DID YOU CALL?—

The Apostolic Christian church is trying to find a clothing donor who called Thursday afternoon and whose address was understood to be "241 Western avenue." The woman left no name, and the church women said they would call for the clothing. However, after checking the avenue, they found no such house number, nor any person in the immediate neighborhood who had called the church. Now they're asking the woman who called to call again as the women want to keep their word about picking up the clothing.

Since June the church has averaged 100 boxes of clothing per week to the homeless and displaced persons in European countries of Yugoslavia, Romania, Hungary, France, Austria and Germany. All persons wishing to donate clothing or bedding for this cause may call the church, phone 3787-9 on either Wednesdays or Thursdays. Other days of the week, donors may call either 2942-7 or 5516-3. All clothing will be collected by the women of the church.

OFFERS HELP—

Mansfield VA officials are going to do everything they can to aid veterans to get their subsistence checks in time to get in that Christmas shopping, G. D. Weidemaier, manager of the sub-regional office, said yesterday.

Weidemaier urged all veterans who have been in job or institutional training under Public Laws 16 or 346 for at least 60 days and have not received their initial subsistence checks to report this fact to the Mansfield office immediately.

A follow up will be made with the regional office in an effort to straighten out the account before Christmas.

THEY'LL TRY AGAIN—

Members of Boy Scout Troop 4 didn't quite make enough for that set of boxing gloves from last week's paper drive, but it hasn't discouraged them. On Dec. 30 (Monday after Christmas) they're going to stage another drive from Newman street to Central avenue and from Orange to Spring streets. They hope to make up the $7 they lack for the athletic equipment. Scoutmaster Dick McMullen said the boys collected $17.40 from the 1,200 pounds of paper, 700 pounds of magazines, 300 pounds of scrap iron and 100 pounds of rags they collected in the same vicinity last Friday. Purpose of the paper drive was to raise money for sports equipment for their club room at the rear of No. 4 fire station.

HORSES ARE THEIR HOBBIES—Five years ago, 13 Mansfielders who chose the saddle for their recreation, organized the Bit and Spur Riding club. Today, the club numbers 49 members, many of whom have walked off with consistent top prizes in Ohio's riding shows and rodeos. At top left, nine-year-old Carol McCartney, the club's youngest member, lines up with four of the veteran riders, left to right, Kenneth McCartney, (Carol's brother) Harry German, president of the club, Russell Chew and Bob Wentz. Wentz, who holds 39 ribbons for state-wide contests and who won 17 first place ribbons in various events is shown top right as his steed, "Jack," displays some championship form. Kenneth and Carol McCartney, lower left, pause in their canter to show off their pure-bred horses, "Queen" (left) and "King," tiny Shetland, (right). The handsome "Queen" was one of 10 horses in the state entered in the stock horse class in Columbus this year. Kenneth took 25 ribbons, eight of them blue ones, in last year's competition, and Carol won eight with her mount. Resplendent in hand-tooled western trappings and brilliant Mexican blanket, "Princess Moon," buckskin-colored Western pony poses with German, her owner, (lower right). All photos were taken at the Richland county fairgrounds, where many of the members "board and room" their horses. Activities of the club, although most active during the summer months, are, however, not confined to that season. This winter will find the riders hitching their horses to sleighs for a brisk ride over the snow. Sundays, during the summer, are no days of rest for either horses or riders, who take in about every horse show in the state. Last June 9 the Bit and Spur club's rodeo drew between 200 and 250 entries to Mansfield. Other officers of the club include Neil Eggerton, vice president; Mrs. Howard McCartney, secretary; Charles Ness, treasurer and directors, Howard Wentz, Clarence Williams, and Howard McCartney. Volunteer Observers Help In Weather Bureau's Work

COLUMBUS —(AP)— They are known only to their neighbors, but without their regular check-ups on what the weather is doing the U. S. weather bureau's batting average would drop like a rookie's in July.

They are the volunteer cooperative observers—120-odd of them in Ohio—who make daily readings of the temperature, rainfall or lack of it, and other things that go to make up the weather. Most of them get nothing but thanks, though a few make a little at key stations during the growing months, but their record of service runs into years.

The dean of Ohio's volunteer observers today is John W. Barr of Vickery, Sandusky county, who was appointed in March, 1893. He is followed by Louis Hardtla of Philo in the Muskingum valley south of Zanesville. He was appointed in October, 1901. Next ranking in seniority are Dr. H. A. Schirmann of Portsmouth and H. B. McConnell of Cadiz, both appointed in September, 1903.

Four others with more than 35 years' service are W. A. Webster of Springfield, appointed in November, 1904, J. T. Dysart of Demos, October, 1905; L. H. Copeland of Millport, May, 1909; and C. O. Romig of Dennison, August, 1909.

SOME SEND IN THEIR READings monthly, some weekly, and some daily, although unusual conditions, such as floods or blizzards, will call for daily reports by telephone from any of them. The findings of those sending in monthly reports appears only in climatological summaries made up by the weather bureau central offices, but the more frequent reports have their weight in the daily forecasts.

"Without the work of these men and women," said George Mindling, U. S. meteorologist here, "we could make our forecasts, but they wouldn't be very close because we would know only what our instruments and eyes showed us right here or in other big stations."

Mindling said that although the climatological summaries might seem to be interesting mainly to scholars and research workers, actually somebody from the general public made use of them almost daily.

"We get requests every day from someone planning to move to another locality asking 'what it's like there,'" he explained. The figures the volunteers send us provide the answer."

THE WEATHER BUREAU gets reports from many other sources, with reporting stations located at county experimental farms, city water works, state hospitals, railroad stations, gas works, sewage plants, and the agricultural experiment station at Wooster.

The station maintained by Dr. Schirmann at Portsmouth for the last 43 years is the oldest volunteer station in the state, having been established 115 years ago. The Marietta station, now tended by H. R. Eggleston, is 102 years old. Others are as new as a year old.

Mindling said that in many communities the public turned to these observers at all times for weather information, even expecting them to make forecasts, but the real value of their work lies in its place in the statewide pattern of weather. This, plus regional and national information, is what the meteorologists go on to tell whether it's going to rain tomorrow.

CONVICTS HELP IN GERM FIGHT

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Federal convicts have volunteered to aid scientists in a new effort to trap the common cold germ and bring it into medical laboratories for study, authorities announced today.

The immediate objective of this new experiment by the District of Columbia Reformatory at Lorton, Va., and the U. S. Public Health Service is to transplant colds to animals. Chimpanzees apparently are the only animals besides man afflicted with colds, Public Health Service doctors say.

The ultimate goal is to find a preventive or cure for a disability credited with causing more loss of work than any other illness.

Superintendent E. J. Welch of the reformatory said more than 50 convicts probably will volunteer for exposure to colds in a program that may last several years.

Scientists will be assigned to the prison where a laboratory will be established. In addition a dozen or more projects will be set up in the health service laboratory a few miles away to try to cultivate, grow and identify the materials selected from the cold-infected convicts.

"We will try to infect animals with cold because research with them is so much speedier and efficient than with human beings and conditions can be controlled with them so much easier," said Dr. Norman H. Topping of the National Institute of Health.

ARMY PLANS CONSTRUCTION

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A $60,069,752 military construction program, including building or conversion of 7,713 temporary dwellings has been authorized for immediate action by army engineers, the war department announced yesterday.

Material obtained in dismantling war camps will be used for the housing which will be for both officers and enlisted men and their families.

The dwellings are the first to be constructed since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor five years ago. The department estimated they will meet about 15 per cent of the army's current needs and will cost about $41,329,500.

The remaining $18,740,252 in the program for the current fiscal year which ends next June 30, the department said, will be used in construction necessary in connection with research projects.

Only a small part of overall construction needs are represented in the program, the department said. Additional projects rated as essential or soon to become essential, the department said, represent an estimated cost of $1,000,000,000.

The new temporary housing program includes approximately 5,580 apartment house units obtained by conversion of existing buildings, and 2,133 new temporary units. A cost ceiling of $7,500 a unit was put on new buildings.

Aside from housing, the largest share of the construction outlays will be for army ordnance posts Included are a $2,385,000 supersonic wind tunnel at California Institute of Technoligy, a $1,000,000 laboratory building for terminal ballistics at Aberdeen, Md., proving ground; and technical construction costing $1,000,000 and 77 housing conversions at the White Sands, N. M., proving ground, where V-2 rockets have been under test.

OPERATION BEGINS

NEW YORK—(AP)—"Operation Reunion," whereby the war department plans to fly about 100 dependents of soldiers weekly by air to Europe, got under way yesterday as 12 women and 14 children took off from LaGuardia Field aboard a commercial airliner.

FRENCH SUB OVERDUE

TOULON, France — (AP) — Naval authorities virtually gave up all hope last night for the missing French submarine 2326, two days overdue at Toulon after deep sea diving tests in the Mediterranean.

HALSEY STEPS ASIDE

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Fleet Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey, jr., the hard-hitting, tough-talking, war-time commander of the famed Third fleet, is stepping aside to let "the young fellows take over." Halsey's action was announced by the navy department. A spokesman said the admiral had asked to be relieved from active participation in naval affairs, and that the request had been granted.

NEW AIR LINE OPENS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Trans World Airline announced last night the first scheduled commercial air service to Palestine and India will be started next month.

Laurette Taylor Dies In New York

NEW YORK —(AP)— Actress Laurette Taylor, 62, died last night.

Cause of her death was not immediately disclosed. She died at 7 p. m. (EST) at Hotel Fourteen in Manhattan.

Miss Taylor, a stage star in 1910, was voted the best actress of 1945 in a poll by Variety, a journal of the entertainment world. In the latter year, she played in "The Glass Menagerie," interpreting a former southern belle who became a frowzy but ambitious mother.

U. N. ARMS CUT TALKS BOG DOWN

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y.—(AP)— The United Nations debate on arms reduction last night bogged down over the issue of security council supervision of two proposed inspection and control commissions and the question was tossed into the laps of a drafting sub-committee.

Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet delegate, insisted before a 20-nation political sub-committee that the two bodies, which would check on arms reduction and atom bombs, operate directly under the security council with its veto provisions.

Sen. Tom Connally (D-Tex.), United States representative, was equally firm in his declaration that the commissions should be independent of the council.

This latest difference boiled down to the old issue of the veto, with the United States apparently feeling that council supervision would eventually make any decisions on inspections subject to the special voting right. Russia has agreed that the veto would not apply within the commissions themselves but has steadfastly maintained its position that any matter being considered or reviewed by the council was liable to veto.

After four hours of debate, the question was given to a drafting committee of eight nations for reporting next Monday. Those named were Russia, United States, Great Britain, France, China, Canada, Belgium and Czechoslovakia.

'From a Little Acorn,' Basketball Is Now Big Recreational Pursuit

By Fred Tharp

LITTLE DID Dr. James A. Naismith realize that the game he invented way back in 1891 would become the nation's No. 1 recreational pursuit with the possible exception of softball . . . For it was on a bleak day in January of 1892 that Naismith's "foundling" game of basketball made its initial appearance in Springfield, Mass. . . . Now this same game has over 20,000,000 active performers the world over and annually draws more attendance than any other sports event . . . Basketball is the only major sport played in this country that has wholly an American origination . . . It was formed to give YMCA members something to do in their leisure indoor winter hours . . . Of the thirteen rules set forth in 1892, 12 are still in the books although the game has gradually changed from a defensive contests to a leather throwing one . . . At the present time Mansfield has 71 active teams, including Friendly House, YMCA, grade school, City A league, high school and junior high aggregations . . . And there are untold hundreds of men, boys and girls playing in gym classes and for their own recreation . . . A conservative estimate would place approximately 5,000 Mansfielders tossing the melon through the hoop.

* * * * *

CAGE HAPPY Ohio high schools have started that long trek towards state titles next spring with a bigger enrollment than ever . . . a total of 1,134 schools and 24,849 boys participated in basketball last year and additional scholastic educational institutions have entered the fold this year . . . New champs are in the offing as defending titleholders Middletown, Class A, and Farmer, Class B, lost heavily by the cold hand of graduation . . . The Middies new coach, Paul Walker, hasn't a single regular back but is blessed with one of the tallest quints in high school annals . . . Farmer has two veterans back . . . Scoring is also on the upswing . . . Results of 137 that reached this desk yesterday showed 157 teams barreling at beter than a point a minute . . . Two Class B schools—St. Charles and Hopewell—led the point production with 75 and 70 apiece . . . Lima Central, a club that plays here in January, topped the A schools with 64 compiled against Dayton Kiser.

CUFF STUFF: New rule designed to curtail stalling in the final minutes of basketball games got its first local test Friday but nothing definite was determined . . . The two games at Senior high gymnasium were not close and we will have to wait for tighter games to see how the rule works . . . It stipulates that the timer's clock will be halted each time the ball becomes dead in the last four minutes of a game . . . In the reserve tussle 8 min., 40 seconds of time was used to play the final three minutes (six-minute quarters were used) and the varsity contest used only 5 min., 47 sec. . . . Ollie Cline, one of the greatest all-around athletes to perform at Senior high, is well on his way to his eighth letter . . . He copped three in football and has two each in basketball and track . . . Cline was state pole vault champ as a sophomore but an injured arm forced him out of the 1946 Ohio schoolboy meet . . . The slender lad made All-Ohio football honorable mention as a back this year and notched 16 points in the Bengals first cage tilt Friday against Wapakoneta . . . Paul Snyder, Mansfield grid coach, scouted Bellevue Tuesday night, Cleveland Collinwood, Friday and Ashland last night . . . Pete Risser, Ashland six-footer, is a member of the Ohio university basketball squad . . . He is a junior and served in the Navy . . . Football note: Latest deal in the bowl business in the Papoose Bowl . . . It will be played at Oklahoma City with Coffeyville (Kan.) junior college going against Cameron (Okla.) junior college.

Four Bowling Tourneys Set For Colony Lanes

Four tournaments are in store for Mansfield keglers at the Colony bowling alleys commencing Jan. 4th and extending through the second week of April, Art Hilborn, Colony manager announced yesterday.

Women's City, Men's City, Women's Inter-City and the Elk's State tournaments will be run-off at the local lanes.

The Women's City tourney gets underway the 4th and 5th of Jan. and concludes the 11th and 12th. More than 45 teams are expected to enter this tourney.

Mary McMullen, association secretary, said that she expects the competition to include at least 15 teams more than enrolled last year.

Team matches are scheduled for Saturdays with the singles and doubles groups bowling on Sundays.

Men's City tournament opens Jan. 19 and goes through the 26th. Hilborn said that more than 200 teams will enter the men's tourney. The deadline for this tourney will be announced next week.

Deadline for entries in the Women's Inter-City matches is set for Jan. 11, Cleone Walters, Findlay, secretary of the Women's Inter-City bowling association announced.

This play is for cities of 50,000 population and under, and 150 teams are expected to enter. Mansfield will be represented by at least 25 ardent female keglers.

This tournament runs through the four week ends of February with the team matches on Saturdays and the singles and doubles on Sunday.

Deadline for the Elks' State tournament, set for the five week ends in March and the first two Saturdays and Sundays in April, has been set for the first week of February.

The Colony Alleys is expected to attract more than 500 teams for this event, Hilborn said.

Hilborn announced that he will try to bring the Men's Inter-City bowling tournament to Mansfield in 1948. This year, Lorain plays host to the biggest bowling attraction in the state of Ohio.

Two other cities, Ashtabula and Steubenville are also bidding for the site of the 1948 tournament which will be decided in a May meeting at Lorain.

New York Pros Can Cinch Title

NEW YORK—(AP)—Needing a win or a tie to assure themselves of the Eastern title, the New York Giants take on the runner-up Redskins at the Polo grounds today before another sellout crowd of 60,000.

If the 'Skins knock off Steve Owen's Giants the two teams will finish their regular seasons in a first place tie that will be played off in Washington next Sunday. Otherwise the Giants will tackle the Chicago Bears, Western winners, for the National league championship at the Polo grounds Dec. 15.

Francis Reagan and Bill Edwards, two Giant regulars who were injured in the Los Angeles game, will be back in action but Washington's Sammy Baugh is on the doubtful list because of damaged ribs and a cold. He probably will see limited duty.

The Chicago Bears are picked to defeat the Detroit Lions today. The Philadelphia Eagles' are picked over Boston, and the Los Angeles Rams over Green Bay.

In the rival All-America conference, the pace-setting Cleveland Browns will be on display in Brooklyn against the Dodgers. Glenn Dobbs of the Dodgers will duel with Otto Graham of the Browns for the conference passing title.

The San Francisco Forty-Niners will entertain the Los Angeles Dons.

On Monday night, the New York Yankees will invade Miami.

Frosh Banned In Ohio Loop

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio conference voted yesterday to reinstate next year its ban on freshman participation in varsity athletics, with no expections.

War veterans will become eligible for play in varsity sports as soon as they enter college, and persons who have been prevented from entering school because of over-crowded conditions may play after two quarters of schooling.

The conference also agreed that the starting date for fall footbally practice in 1947 shall not be more than three weeks prior to a school's first game. After 1947 the starting date shall be three weeks prior to the last Saturday in September.

The conference reaffirmed its position on amateurism, with the reservation that a student who participates in professional sport disqualifies himself from college competition only in that sport.

The fee for football officials was increased from $20 per game to $25.

20 Rams Earn Letters

BUCK COACH GIVES RAMS HIGH PRAISE

By BRUCE McGINTY

Twenty Mansfield Madison footballers, who ended the 1946 season with seven victories against two defeats, were awarded varsity letters by Coach Jeff DeHaven last night at the annual grid banquet at the Madison high gymnasium.

Senior Captain Jack Cleckner received the first letter and was given high praise along with the other Rams by Carroll Widdoes, Ohio State backfield coach, who was guest speaker for the occasion.

Juniors who earned their monograms were Ed Thomas, Bob Wilson, Herb Eldridge, Dick Ernsberger, Richard Brown and Eldon Pritchard. Don Morris was the only sophomore to be awarded a varsity letter.

Cleckner then announced that Pritchard would be captain of the 1947 edition of the Rams.

Widdoes stressed the importance of team training, as well as why a player must co-operate and fight for his coach and other members of the team as well as for himself.

The Buck mentor said that without all-around unity of the whole squad, a winning team can not be found in any school. He added that Madison has shown it has good organization, not only in the team and coach, but also by the Booster's club, which has backed the Rams for several years.

He concluded his speech by commending DeHaven for building up the Rams' athletic department, since he came to Madison from John Simpson junior high school four years ago.

DeHaven started as Ram coach with only 15 men out for football and this year had 60 men trying for the varsity eleven.

Charles Freehafer acted as toastmaster for the banquet. He introduced Olan LaRue, superintendent of schools, Wayne Miller, Madison principal, and Curt Glenn, Bill Erdenberger, and LaVerne Thrush of the Booster club.

Assistant Coach Bill Kopcial presented 17 reserves with Rams heads. The awards were given to Howard Sprague, Jack Bosh, Eugene Riblet, Raymond Bader, James Gatton, James Brightbill, Raymond Patterson, Fred Durig, James McMillin, Bud Baith, and James Guthrie, all sophomores.

Freshmen to receive the reserve awards were Dick Broach, Bruce Armstrong, Norman Hughes, Duaine Stimens, and Bill Remy.

TRADE GENE WOODLING FOR PIRATE CATCHER

LOS ANGELES —(AP)— The Philadelphia Phillies purchased veteran Pitcher Dutch Leonard from Washington and Pittsburgh obtained Outfielder Gene Woodling from Cleveland in a swap for Catcher Al Lopez in two trades which highlighted the close yesterday of the annual winter baseball meeting.

Further details in setting up a player pension plan were agreed upon as the two major league owners sat in joint session with Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Leonard, knuckle ball star for the Senators since 1938, was purchased outright for an undisclosed sum of cash. The 36-year-old twirler won 10 and lost 10 last season and has a lifetime major league record of 136 victories and 124 losses. He gained the spotlight on the closing day of the 1944 campaign when he shut out the Detroit Tigers, which insured the St. Louis Browns winning the American league pennant.

Leonard, a 200-pounder, 6 foot, 1 inch tall, had an earned run average last season of 3.56.

Lopez, mainstay of the Pirate catching department for a long time, goes to Cleveland on a straight trade. Woodling, 26, hit only .188 in 61 games with Cleveland last season but was viewed as a promising batter off his previous accomplishments in the minor leagues, notably the Eastern league and the Ohio State league with the Mansfield Braves. He is a left hand batter.

A permanent committee from the two majors will be set up to guide the pension plan. Each club will put up $250 a year for each qualified player and the players will match the amount from their own pockets. The leagues guaranteed use of money for the radio rights of the World Series which last season amounted to $175,000, and guaranteed all net proceeds of the annual all-star game.

As it stands now the opening pension kitty will amount to $395,000. The players, represented by Dixie Walker and Johnny Murphy, hope to raise the amount to total $675,000, which would enable a player to retire at the age of 45 years and with at least 10 years service in the major leagues, at $100 a month.

Further details in the operation remained to be ironed out.

George Trautman of Columbus, O., who will assume the National Association presidency next month for a five year term, promised the crackdown on gambling will mount in force "until it is driven completely out of our game."

The Chicago White Sox bought Shortstop Jack Wallaesa from the Athletics, where he hit .196 in 63 games last season. Part of the season he spent with Toronto.

Lima, in the Ohio State league, signed a working agreement with the White Sox.

Schedule Second 'Am' Fight Show

Hall, ex-Ohio State mat champion, is popular in the local grappling circles, and has copped many matches at the Ashland road ring.

Promoter Earl Myers has Alex Kasaboski, Canada, pitted against Portland's Anglo Martinnelli in the semi-finals. Both of the main attractions will be one hour matches with the best two-out-of-three falls.

The preliminary tussle at 8:15 finds Mansfielder Henry Morgenstirn colliding with Buzz Jones of Cedar Rapids. This added feature is a 30 minute one fall avent.

Morganstirn, who used to be one of Mansfield's favorites has not been on a local wrestling card for more than four years.

Ace Back Leaves Naval Academy

ANNAPOLIS, Md. —(AP)— The Naval academy yesterday announced the resignation of halfback Lynn Chewning, who came within three yards of beating Army in the closing minutes at Philadelphia last Saturday.

Chewning, from Richmond, Va., was one of those involved in a controversy last fall over the transfer of several players from Virginia Military institute to the Naval academy.

Vice Admiral Aubrey W. Fitch, academy superintendent, declined to disclose the reason for Chewning's resignation.

COLLINWOOD, LIMA SOUTH, BELLEVUE ON WEEK'S TICKET

By FRED THARP, News-Journal Sports Editor.

Mansfield high school basketeers really have their work cut out for them this week.

The Tygers have a trio of contests on tap and none can be rated in the soft touch division. A trip to Bellevue Tuesday night starts the ball rolling and then Cleveland Collinwood comes here Friday. Mansfield takes to the highways again Saturday to play Lima South.

Coach Vern Hoffman's cagers suffered a bad case of the opening game shakes in beating Wapakoneta Friday night, 32-23, but should settle down at Bellevue as the two schools resumed friendly relations.

Bellevue, state champions in 1945, rolled over the Tygers, 41-34, in the 1944-45 campaign. However, during Hoffman's tenure as top man of Bengal basketball destinies, Mansfield has beaten Bellevue six times in nine games.

Three six-footers make up Bellevue front line and the height advantage over the Tygers may mean the contest. The Redmen knocked off Bowling Green, 37-27, in their opener and then nipped Lorain, 38-37, last Tuesday. Forward Jim Ball paced the scorers in the Lorain tussle with 15 counters.

Cleverest lad on the Redmen quintet is Norm Shelley, service returnee. He is a rugged defense man and a top flight ball-handler on a team that employs the fast break in fine style.

Two hundred tickets for the Bellevue conflict will go on sale Tuesday at 8 a. m. at Senior high school. Bellevue officials will hold seats for Mansfielders until the reserve game gets started at 7 p. m.

Cleveland Collinwood ran afoul of Cleveland Shaw, 31-22, in its opener Friday but the Forest City quintet will be plenty tough for the Bengals. Shaw's narrow court proved the unraveling of the Collinwood attack.

The game had been originally slated for Collinwood's spacious floor Friday afternoon. However, in an effort to conserve fuel most of the Cleveland schools shut down for good each day at 4 o'clock and the game was shifted.

Lima South stacks up as the weakest combine on next week's docket but the tough games with Bellevue and Collinwood may take too much out of Hoffman's lads. South opened its season by bowing to Bluffton, a perennial toughie, 66-46, Friday.

Last season Mansfield nipped Collinwood 27-25, and South 46-29.

Coach Fred Staub's talented sophomores play preliminaries to all three varsity contests.

Future Mansfield Tyger opponents fared quite well in engagements Friday night. Only South and Collinwood went down to defeat while eight others roared to convincing triumphs. Lima Central, which plays here Jan. 3, turned in the state's fifth highest total in blasting Dayton Kiser, 64-15.

Other results, with Tyger opponents listed first, follow: Bexley 53, Marion Harding 33; Ashland 39, Cleveland Rhodes 32; Springfield 48, Columbus West 32; Sandusky 47, Fostoria 38; Fremont Ross 34, Port Clinton 24; Youngstown Chaney 38, Newton Falls 24, and Warren Harding 45, Cleveland East Tech 30.

Bexley, Ashland, Springfield, Warren and Chaney all make appearances in the Tyger lair.

Crestline Plays Willard Friday

CRESTLINE — Crestline high school plays its first home basketball game of the 1946-47 season when Willard comes here Friday night.

Coach Merle Hutson announced yesterday that all home games would begin at 7 p. m. Michael Flynn and Louis Cellini are assisting Hutson with the Crestline cagers.

STATE WINS

COLUMBUS—(AP)— Ohio State University's basketball team pulled out of a 21-21 tie in the final three minutes last night to win its season opener against the University of Pittsburgh 39 to 33 and extend an unbroken string of home court victories to 22 games.

TOLEDO ELEVEN DEFEATS BATES IN GLASS BOWL

TOLEDO—(AP)—The University of Toledo Rockets solved the stubborn defense of Bates college here yesterday and opened football's post-season Bowl series with a 21-12 triumph over the gridders from Lewiston, Maine, in the first annual presentation of the Glass Bowl.

A crowd of 12,000—2,000 short of capacity—saw the lighter but willing Bates Bobcats stave off three first-half scoring threats inside their 20-yard line and build up a 6-0 first-quarter lead before bowing to Toledo's super weight and brawn for the Maine men's first loss in eight games this year.

Bates, outweighed 15 pounds per man by the Rockets, got off to an early lead after holding twice inside the 20 in the first period. They linked two plays for 82 yards and a touchdown in the first eight minutes. Art Blanchard, a stocky halfback, started the drive with a 16-yard gallop to his 34-yard line.

On the next play, fullback Walker heap sneaked through the line on a delayed buck, rambled 11 yards, then lateralled to halfback Al Howlett who went the rest of the way untouched. Blanchard's try for point failed.

The Bobcats staged their third defensive stand early in the second period, stopping the Rockets on the six-yard line. But the Rockets later solved the easterners' stubborn defense and sent halfback Tony Wolodzko over from the five to tie the score and guard John Shutt added the conversion to give the Rockets a lead they never relinquished.

The Rockets drove 69 yards in 11 plays for a third-period touchdown, Ehrhardt plunging over from the five. The tally gave Toledo five points more than Coach Ducky Pond's Bates team had given up all year winning the Maine championship. Shutt added another conversion to the total.

Remington Arms company, Inc., announced this week that the Remington express and Peters high velocity long range shells will soon be available in limited quantities in 12, 16, 20 and 28 gauges with the new flat-top crimp.

With this new type cap, hunters will not be able to use the excuse that there was a hole in the pattern when they were shooting at ducks, pheasants and rabbits. This is brought about by the elimination of the top shot wad which occasionally interfered with the shot to such an extent that a hole in the pattern was caused.

McGINTY

In addition to the elimination of this wad, the new shells have an advantage of improved waterproofing, and increased shot pattern effectiveness is assured at all hunting ranges.

The Michigan Conservation department estimates that the 300,000 deer hunters in the Wolverine state will spend at least $7,500,000 in pursuit of the elusive bucks this year.

Michigan sportsmen, however, say this estimate is far too conservative and that they will spend an average of $50 each on deer hunting trips this season. And more likely top that for a total of $17,500,000.

A survey has indicated that Ohio's crop of wild game was slightly larger than that of last year. The ruffed grouse population has increased, the conservation department reports.

According to reports from Ed Irwin's boathouse at Mifflin lake, Richland county hunters have gone home in disgust and returned with their rod and reel.

Not one hunter in that area bagged his limit in rabbit this past week but more than 50 fishermen have been having a field day at catching crappies.

Regardless of the bad reports on the hunting, Richland countians still insist there is game to be had. In the last two days, Kenneth Dunham, Eddie Marion, Harold Kurtz and E. D. Nelson purchased hunting licenses.

SPORTS FALLACIES
by MARGERY MILLER

Because football players habitually wear football uniforms in games, we assume that they must. The assumption is false.

The rule book of collegiate football, in treating of players' equipment, emphasizes the fact that no player may wear, underneath or as part of his uniform, substances or materials which might cause physical injury to the opposition. But it says little to deter players from wearing much lighter uniforms than are customary.

Bo McMillin, now famous as a coach, was the sparkplug of the football team which first drew the national spotlight to Centre college. In 1919 Centre was trailing Indiana (of which he was to become coach years later) when Bo quit the game. He came back to his quarterback position a short time afterward attired only in a jersey and track pants. So clad, he sped to a touchdown, unencumbered by excess weight. He passed for another touchdown. The final score was Centre 12, Indiana 3.

Recognition Banquet Fetes Shelby Gridders

By JOHN GRAY

SHELBY—The first annual football recognition program was held for the Shelby Whippets at the high school auditorium on last night.

Shelby grid fans, parents of the players, school faculty and others paid tribute to the squad which brought the school its first league championship in 14 years.

High tribute was paid to Coach Al Fendrick, who made his debut as head football coach here this fall, along with his assistants, Paul Curry, Larry Swackhamer, Joseph Yohn and Bill Wilkins.

Fendrick, former Mansfield Madison coach and Johnny Appleseed Boy Scout area field executive, succeeded Swackhamer, who resigned to accept an assistant's role.

Principal J. E. McCullough of Shelby high school served as master of ceremonies for the program which gave recognition to each and everyone who helped in anyway during the past football season.

The Northern Ohio league championship trophy was awarded to the team. It had been presented to school officials during the semi-annual meeting of the league last month in Norwalk.

Coach Fendrick presented varsity grid letters and gold footballs to the following 24 players and senior manager:

All-league End Dick Seitz, all-league tackle John Hardie, all-league center Charles Phillips, all-league fullback Bill Keiser, Bill Hassler, Kenny Alberts, Joe Korbas, Grant Dowds, Bill Thompson, Stan Jones, Jim Reed.

Bennie Lay, Jim Bell, Jack Coffey, Jan Dick, Duck Hoover, Darwin Sampsel, Bud Clabaugh, Jim Anderson, Chuck Bly, Jim Will, Al Maier, "Red Fackler, Jim Dick and Herb Tullis, manager.

The Junior high squad was introduced along with the members of the other teams.

The high school band directed by Dwight Sommerville furnished the music for the program.

Motion pictures of the Whippets in action were shown.

The entire center section of the auditorium was reserved for the football players.

Girl Delinquent Put on Probation

A 17-year-old Cherry street girl, found guilty of delinquency in being incorrigible, yesterday was placed on probation to juvenile court for one year.

Judge Stuart H. Cramer ordered the girl to return to her parents, obtain a steady job, and be in her home by a reasonable hour at night.

Meanwhile, another girl, 15, of an Ashland road address, was charged with delinquency in being incorrigible and refusing to attend school. No date for a hearing has been set as yet.

Dogs which have been "dead" for as long as eight minutes have been revived in laboratory experiments reported by the Encyclopedia Britannica 1946 Year Book. A pump to replace heart action, stimulant drugs and artificial respiration were used.
